CAPTAIN MARY NISIEWICZ of the Salvation Army stops in to visit with a worthy family in the county. Many needy families are given a lift by the friendly aid of the Salvation Army.

Administers to Needs Everywhere

Salvation Army One Of Most Important Red Feather Agencies

This is one of a series of articles on Red Feather Agencies participating in the Marion County Community Chest. They are published to show the importance of Marion County residents' contributions to the Community Chest fund campaign scheduled to begin Oct. 16.

HIGH up on the list of organizations which are adding measurably to the happiness and health of our community is the Marion Corps of the Salvation Army. Almost 14 percent of the proceeds of the 1952 Community Chest drive, scheduled Oct. 16 through Oct. 25, have been allotted to this Red Feather Agency.

The activities of the Army in Marion City and County are extremely wide and reach all ages, races, and creeds. Each fall the officers in charge, Captain Mary Nisiewicz and Lt. Pauline Kaconis, release a small mimeographed booklet outlining their activities for the summer. This year's figures showed 192 boys and girls were enrolled in the Army's summer program. These children attended craft classes 1,359 times, instrument classes 234 times, Happy Hour services 1,821 times, and engaged in playground activities for 3,365 individual sessions. In addition, 506 preschool children were cared for in the Army's nursery, and 463 children were taken on educational tours including nature hikes and scavanger hunts.

EMERGENCY WELFARE constitutes an important phase of the Army's work. Many needy families in the county have been assisted this year with food and clothing, fuel, furniture, and emergency transportation.

Through the efforts of the Salvation Army and Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo, 120 boys and girls—members of the Children's Home and wards of the Juvenile court—were sent to Greenwood Lake camp just east of Delaware this summer for 10-day outings.

In past years, these camping periods were financed by local groups and individuals who responded to a personal letter from Judge Ruzzo.

This year the entire project will fall under the auspices of the Community Chest. Present plans are to send 150 boys and girls in 1952 by means of an enlarged Fresh Air Fund. The generous persons and organizations who contributed to Judge Ruzzo's campaign in the past will be asked this year to include these "camping funds" in their regular contribution.

INCLUDED IN the 1952 Red Feather budget is a fund of $1,000 set aside to provide emergency hospitalization for any citizen of Marion City or County, regardless of race or creed. Once again this noteworthy work, which assures emergency treatment and often saves lives, will be carried on by the King's Daughters with Mrs. W. E. Miley in charge.

The successful functioning of the eleven agencies and funds of the Marion County Community Chest depends solely on the outcome of the coming Red Feather Drive. Remember the Salvation Army, the healthful program of the Fresh Aid Fund, the Emergency Welfare Fund, and the Emergency Hospitalization Fund when making your contribution. And remember—it's a Bigger Red Feather for 1952.

New Curbs On Civilian Goods Seen

1952 Control Plan May Cut Appliance Output by 10 Percent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—New cutbacks in the production of civilian goods, averaging about 10 percent across the household appliance field, were foreseen today as defense mobilizer Charles E. Wilson prepared to unveil his 1952 control plan to Congress.

Wilson and defense production administrator Manly Fleischmann were invited to outline their plans at a special joint meeting of the House and Senate banking and small business committees.

The reported new production cuts, officials said, would become effective Jan. 1, simultaneously with an indicated additional reduction of 13 percent in passenger car output.

The legislators were expected to question Wilson and Fleischmann about reports that they are considering drastic prohibitions, amounting to "death sentence orders," one some less-essential uses of copper and aluminum.

"No Decision Reached"

Fleischmann has stated that no decision has been reached on this issue, even though "very accute" shortages of aluminum and copper are certain in the first half of next year.

Even if the "death sentences" are not imposed, he has told reporters there very likely will be "some casualties" among businesses which find themselves unable to operate profitbaly on the reduced rations of metal.

Makers of washing machines, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and a long list of other standard household appliances have been

Expect Senate, House Approval

See Income Tax Hike Of Nearly 12 Percent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—A $5,750,000,000 tax increase which among other things would boost the levy on most individual incomes by about 11¾ percent was approved yesterday by a Senate-House conference committee.

The measure—the nation's second largest revenue bill—is scheduled for House action next Tuesday. It then will go to the Senate. Approval by both is anticipated.

In addition to the income tax rise—effective Nov. 1—the bill calls for sharp increases in the excise taxes on whisky, beer, wine, cigarets, gasoline automobiles and a number of other articles

Corporation taxes are jumped by upward of $2,300,000,000, retroactive to last April 1.

In many aspects, particularly in estimated revenue yield, the bill is closer to the $5,400,000,000 measure passed by the Senate than the $7,200,000,000 version voted by the House. Nevertheless a number of key House provisions were included in the compromise, worked out after sessions spreading over nine days.

More Than Half

The bill provides only a little more than half the $10,000,000,000 additional income which President Truman said represents the government's minimum needs

With enactment of this bill, the tax load will have been increased some $15,575,000,000 since the start of the Korean war A record-breaking $6,100,000,000 increase went on the statute books in Septemger, 1950; a $3,900,000,000 excess profits tax act in January, 1951.

The individual income tax increases are integrated into the regular bracket rates. As a result of rounding off the figures to produce even numbers in the rates the increase for most taxpayers actually varies from 11½ to 12 percent.

A single person earning $4,000 a year (after deductions for interest, taxes, contributions, etc. but before his personal exemption) will pay $790.40 a year in federal income taxes instead of his present $708 obligation. A married couple with two dependents and an income of $8,000 will owe $1,285 60 instead of $1,152.

Alternative

An, alternative tax increase is offered persons in the higher income brackets. They have an option of paying an additional 9 percent on the amount of their income remaining after payment of taxes at existing rates. This alternative is advantageous to single persons with an income of $28,000 or more, and married couples above $57,600.

For the first time, single persons who are heads of households are granted half the tax benefits available to married couples under the income splitting provisions of the tax laws.

The net increase in individual tax liabilities was estimated at $2,480,000,000, and the excise tax boost at $1,204,000,000. Some of the miscellaneous provisions of the bill will result in loss of revenue to the treasury.

The excise (sales tax) increase go into effect Nov. 1, if President Truman signs the bill by Oct. 21.

They include the following increases:

Whisky and other spirituous liquor, from $9 to $10 50, a 100-proof gallon, or about 26 cents a fifth for ordinary liquor. Beer from $8 a barrel to $8. Wine taxes up an average of 12½ percent.

End Costliest Hill Battle Of Korean War

Bayonet Charge Clears Last Peak After All-Night Battle

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 12—(AP)—Bloody bayonets of American and French infantrymen today cleared the Reds off the last peak of Heartbreak Ridge, climaxing the longest and most costly hill battle of the Korean war.

Fierce fighting continued on the northern slope below the crest. U. S. 8th Army officers referred to it as "mopping up."

The Allies captured two other nearby peaks in the eastern Korean mountains.

In a blazing air battle over northeastern Korea U. S. F-86 Sabre jet pilots reported they shot down one Red jet and damaged six. The Fifth Air Force said the Sabres were outnumbered 100 to 32. It said no American jets were lost in the 20-minute fight.

Along the western front Chinese Reds hurled three attacks at the United Nations line. Two were beaten back.

The third forced elements of the U S First Cavalry Division to withdraw. The pullback was in the Yonchon sector, roughly 25 miles northeast of Panmunjom where Red and U. N. liaison officers were reported near agreement of reopening truce talks.

Planes Out In Force

Allied warplanes were out in force Friday. Land-based planes mounted 1,045 sorties Thursday, the highest number in four months. Four carriers sent their planes aloft, including 90 sorties off the Australian escort carrier Sydney. The Navy said this was possibly a record for an escort carrier.

All battle action was overshadowed by the capture of the northernmost peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A little band of haggard Frenchmen and Americans seized it in a night long attack. At 8 a.m. they stood looking across the crest at the climax of 31 days of incredible fighting.

At their feet were the burned and twisted bodies of North Korean Communists whose fanatical defense was equalled only by the courage that won the bitter admiration of the men who killed them in hand-to-hand struggle.

The Reds' dogged defense made the month long battle for the four mile ridge probably the costliest Allied regimental attack of the whole Korean war.

Some companies almost disappeared Some battalions were cut down to little more than companies

French Lose Heavily

The devil-may-care French battalion, which fought for the ridge with the U. S. Second Division, suffered terribly.

Strategically, the capture of Heartbreak rounds out gains of the big Allied eastern offensive. That offensive began Aug. 18. During the collapse of truce talks it pushed the U. N. line 15 miles northward through rugged mountains.

Heartbreak is a natural fortress. It towers 2,600 feet above the valleys on either side.

Slot Machines Found In Unused Room

Three forbidden slot machines were found in an unused second floor room at the rear of 127 East Center street yesterday and police aren't sure what to do about it.

The owner-agent of building yesterday entered the building and found, the slots. He called police and the machines were confiscated.

Mere possession of slot machines is a violation of a new Ohio law which went into effect last month. But police do not plan to file charges against the property owner since he did not know the "one-armed bandits" were there, Police Chief Tom Coon said.

The owner had entered the room which is on the second floor of the building in preparation to renting it again.

The former tenants had left and taken the key with them The room had not been rented since June The machines were covered with an accumulation of several months' dust

Police Chief Coon said the machines were probably abandoned about the time a federal law went into effect which made it a federal offense to transport slot machines across state lines.

Jurist Key Figure In Case

Truman's Friend Finnegan Is Indicted For Bribery

(Picture on Page 4)

ST. LOUIS, Oct 12—(AP)—A 73-year-old jurist was the key figure in events leading to the indictment of James P. Finnegan on charges of accepting bribes.

He is U. S. District Judge George H. Moore.

Both men are former collectors of internal revenue here Both are Democrats.

A federal court grand jury indicted Finnegan, personal friend of President Truman, on five counts yesterday. Finnegan resigned his collector's job last April.

On March 1, a month and a half after the jury was impaneled, Judge Moore ordered it to look into handling of tax cases in eastern Missouri.

A few days later it was learned the judge had received a letter from a former tax intelligence unit agent which voiced suspicions that some cases were "fixed."

After three weeks' work the jury told the court in partial report it could find no wrongdoing

Judge Moore wouldn't take no for an answer. He bluntly declared in court the jurors hadn't had help from "certain officials in their work. He did not name names or departments.

He told the jurors to try again He recalled his knowledge of the bureau here from when he headed it between 1914 and 1922, and told the jurors where to find what they were seeking.

On May 7, Sen. Williams (R-Del) charged on the Senate floor that the Justice and Treasury Departments withheld damaging evidence against Finnegan despite requests for co-operation in the investigation.

Finnegan was charged in two counts with accepting two $250 checks from the Karol Kell Garment Co. which since has gone out of business, at a time the firm had pending a tax delinquency case which by law "might be brought before him (Finnegan) in his official capacity."

The other three counts accused

State Offices Closed Due To Columbus Day

(Picture on page 14)

Banks, Buildings & Loan offices, the Ohio State Employment Service and other state offices are closed today in observance of Columbus Day. Schools, postoffice and other federal offices, city and county offices together with business places in the city are open.

Flags in the business district called attention to the holiday and patriotic themes were carried out in exercises in city and parochial schools.

The day marks the 459th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, Genoese navigator. On Oct. 12, at 2 a.m. Rodrigo de Triana, on the ship Nina, discovered land. Columbus landed on Guanahoni, Bahamas, also called San Salvador and Watling Island. He discovered Cuba and Hispianola (Haiti or San Domingo), built the first fort, La Navidad, there. Columbus was made Admiral of the Ocean Sea.

Train Holds Up Traffic

Auto traffic in Marion was held up for nearly an hour this morning when a heavily-loaded New York Central freight train was unable to climb over the hump at the eastern edge of Marion

Crossings on Oak, Main, Prospect and State streets were blocked.

The congestion was cleared when the train was cut in half. Part of the train was pulled over the hump by the train's steam engine while the remaining cars were left where the train had stalled. The train was later reassembled when the second group of cars was pulled over the hill.

Police directed traffic through the lowered crossing gates after the cut had been made.

Sen. Taft Speaking In Columbus Tonight

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12—(UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican of Ohio returned to his home state today for a foreign policy speech amid mushrooming demands that he move quickly and formally for the 1952 G.O.P. presidential nomination.

Taft will be featured speaker at a banquet of the Columbus Italian-American Club tonight.

Superintendent's Resignation, Unaccepted, Brings Action

Delaware Pupils To Disband Secret Societies Attacked by School Head

DELAWARE, Oct. 12—Student members of secret fraternities and sororities at Willis High School here voluntarily decided to disband them yesterday after they were termed "undemocratic and discriminatory" by School Superintendent D. R. Smith.

His statement was contained in a resignation submitted the city board of education Wednesday.

The resignation, however, was not accepted by the board, which scheduled a meeting this morning to put into effect the superintendent's suggested ban on the secret societies.

Mr. Smith, Delaware school superintendent 19 years, said he did not wish to stay as superintendent if secret fraternities and sororities continue.

In a letter to Bob Burns, president of the Delaware board, Mr. Smith wrote:

"This is my resignation as superintendent. The board members know that I believe that high school fraternities and sororities are undemocratic, discriminatory and out of place in a public tax supported school where the children of all the people are required to attend by law.

"It is best that I resign before the matter comes up again as I do not wish to have any coercion ascribed to me, nor do I wish to stay as superintendent of schools if fraternities and sororities continue."

The students voluntarily decided to disband after a meeting yesterday with Willis High School Principal Carl Hopkins.

Earlier Request

Mr. Smith pointed out that he had made recommendations to the

Summon Liaison Team To Kaesong

Reds Charge Allies With New Neutrality Violations

MUNSAN, KOREA, Oct. 12—(12)—The Reds summoned Allied liaison officers to Kaesong tonight to investigate new neutrality violation charges.

The call came as the Reds and Allies appeared near agreement on reopening truce talks at a new site, Panmunjom, six air miles southeast of Kaesong.

The Reds charged that a United Nations plane attacked the Kaesong neutral zone at 9:35 p.m. (3:35 a.m. EST)—only an hour and a half after the truce meeting ended at Panmunjom.

They made the charge over the radio-telephone circuit linking the U.N. advance peace camp at Munsan with Kaesong, original site of truce talks which the Reds broke off Aug. 23 because of an asserted Allied plane attack.

Air Force Checking

Air Force Col. Don C. Darrow and Army Lt. Col. Norman B. Edwards left the Allied peace camp by jeep at 8 p.m. for Kaesong.

Simultaneously, a U.N. spokesman said, the U. S. Air Force began checking to see if any Allied plane could have been in the area.

Charges of violations of the Kaesong neutral zone were the main reason for moving the talks.

The size of the protected area to be maintained around Kaesong in the future appeared today to be a major stumbling block in the path of resuming armistice negotiations.

Women Chest Workers Plan Campaign

More Than 300 Meet At Y.M.C.A. For Drive Instructions

More than 300 Marion women will turn salesmen next Tuesday in the interest of the annual Community Chest drive which gets under way on that date.

Leaders and workers in the women's division met last night at the Y.M.C.A. to receive their work kits and to hear a resume of the campaign plans. Following the general meeting, the workers and leaders broke up into ward sessions to complete plans for their part in the campaign.

Heading the women's division are Mrs. B. H. Buettin, advisor, Mrs James A. McGlew and Mrs. John Waddell. The goal in this division is slightly under $5000.

Home Calling Campaign

In the general meeting the women heard talks by J. B Bray, campaign chairman, and Charles Harmon, a member of the campaign executive committee. Theirs will be strictly a "home" calling campaign, the women were told. Aside from the beauty parlors, which the speakers feel is strictly woman's domain, the neighborhood business places will be solicited by men.

Last night's audience of 150 women included many veterans in Community Chest drives, and their interest was shared by the newcomers. Aside from the character building and welfare agencies, which need no introduction to Marion residents, the workers in the women's group and other divisions have two new greatly needed agencies to sell this year —the Family Service Society and the U.S.O. The Family Service Society, regarded by the Community Chest as a "great step forward" is a local service agency and the U.S.O. subscriptions will be Marion's share in serving men and women of the armed forces. It is hoped the family service agency will be in operation before the first of the year. The Family Service Society will be operated under the supervision of a board composed of 12 persons to be named by subscribers to last year's Community Chest, and three appointed members. Ballots bearing the names of 24 persons, from which 12 members of the board are to be selected, went in the mail yesterday.

Share Enthusiasm

The workers shared the enthusiasm of the speakers in this year's program which is believed by the Marion Community Foundation to be the best in the history of the organization.

Emphasized in the talk were the facts that there is no outside director for this year's campaign and there are no paid campaign workers. Workers were urged to get pledges, inasmuch as the Community Chest operates on a year-round working basis and funds are needed throughout the year to carry on the work. The workers were assured by the speakers that "everyone in Marion city and County is to be given a chance to share in the campaign."

The workers were asked to not start their canvass until Tuesday and to attend the kick-off breakfast Tuesday morning at the Y.M.C.A.

Starting Monday, telephones will be in operation at the campaign headquarters and the women were told to call 2-3055 or 2-3058 for any needed information.

ADMITS TAX JOB UPPED LAW WORK. James P. Finnegan (right), former St. Louis internal revenue collector who quit last April under fire, turns in his chair at House investigation in Washington to have a word with his brother Hugh, ex-New York movie theater executive. The former collector admitted the job, to which he was appointed in 1944, helped his law practice, and also that his own tax payments were short.

4th Auditor in 4 Years Quits in Noble County.

CALDWELL, O., Oct. 12—(AP)—Noble County's fourth auditor to resign in four years quit yesterday, charging "political interference." Jack Wilson said:

"I refuse to remain in office where politics must be the guiding rule instead of the welfare of the people who elected me."

The resignation is believed to be the climax of a dispute over whether a property re-appraisal should be made. County commissioners have refused to appropriate funds. The state ordered them to appropriate $20,000 some time ago, but the order is being appealed to the State Board of Tax Appeals.

cents a pack to 8. The tax on chewing and smoking tobacco goes down, however, from 18 to 10 cents a pound.

Gasoline tax up from 1½ to 2 cents. New automobiles are taxed 10 percent of manufacturers' price instead of current 7 percent. Tax on trucks and buses up from 5 to 8 percent. Several additional electrical appliances made subject to 10 percent manufacturers tax.

Bowing to protests from mothers of small children the lawmakers took off the 20 percent retail tax on baby oils, powders and lotions.

The excise tax increases are to remain in effect until April 1, 1954, when the rates are supposed to go back to the present level—provided Congress doesn't change its mind.

Despite stiff opposition from House members, the conference agreed to apply corporate taxes to now-exempt farm co-operatives, mutual savings banks, and building and loan associations.

Veterans and Draftees Guide —

—By—

Major Thomas M. Nial

From J. W. C. of Louisville, Ky.: "In your column of Sept 19 you stated that an eligible vet who had a previous loan could use his additional entitlement under the 1951 Housing Act to improve his present home. I went to the local VA office and they told me this was not possible. Who is correct?"

The local VA office is correct. A man cannot use his additional entitlement to improve his home, but only to buy or build a home for himself. This was an oversight on my part. However, an original G.I. loan may be used for improvement or alteration of a home, farm or business.

From Mrs. J. W .K. of South Bend, Ind.: "How long must draftees serve in the reserve after they're separated?"

Those drafted on or before June 19, 1951, must serve either three years in the organized reserve or five years in the volunteer or inactive reserve. Those drafted after June 19, 1951, serve a total of eight years, active and inactive.

From Mrs. D. E. W. of Lockport, N. Y: "Must a man contribute to more than 50 percent of the support of his parents before he rates a 3-A dependency deferment?"

Not necessarily. It's up to his draft boad to decide, but draft regulations say he may be deferred if his induction "would result in hardship and privation to a person dependent upon him for support." A fellow with, say, crippled parents might be contributing very little financially to their support but actually helping them physically around the house. He could be deferred

For the Class Q Dependency Allowance, however, a serviceman must be contributing more than 50 percent of the support of his parents before they become eligible.

From D. O. T. of Washington, D. C.: "I've been recalled as a naval reservist, due to report this December. I have a $10,000 NSLI term policy and paid a semi-annual premium which was due Oct. 1. If I apply for a waiver of premiums as soon as I report, will the VA refund any of that premium?"

Yes. If you apply for the waiver in December it will take effect on Jan. 1. You'll have three months premium left over, which the VA will refund to you by check.

From L. S. R. of Hoboken, N. J: "I've just been through a bad auto accident and will be laid up in bed for about five months. Could I draw a VA pension for that period? I'm a World War II vet."

No. You must be "permanently and totally" disabled before you qualify for pension. That is, there must be a reasonable certainty that you will be unable to earn a living for the rest of your life.

Comfort for Gus Hall

THE hearts of his fellow Americans do not beat faster because Gus Hall, who jumped bail while awaiting sentence after conviction on charges of plotting as a Communist conspirator to overthrow the United States, has been locked up in a federal prison.

Hall did conspicuous service for the Communist party during his numerous years of uninterrupted plotting. In the case of the "little steel" strike in the late thirties, Hall took ruthless advantage of the opportunity to practice the techniques of revolt. As chief of operations in Ohio, he helped to arrange encounters with the police and a good deal of blood-letting before common sense finally reasserted itself and cooled off the public temper.

After his conviction in the trial of the 11 Communists in New York Federal Court for conspiracy to overthrow the government, Hall jumped bail, with three others. He has been picked up in Mexico and sent back to serve his sentence. He will not disappear without trace. He will not be sent into exile to work out his life in a mine or a lumber camp. He will be fed, clothed, housed and cared for like any other citizen who has been tried and found guilty by due process of law. In the circumstances, Gus Hall can think of himself as an extremely lucky man.

They Changed Their Minds

THE accumulation of savings by the American people, admits the Federal Reserve Board, is puzzling economic experts. Instead of buying goods on a rising market and thereby making it certain the market would keep right on rising, millions of Americans are salting away money in savings banks and paying off old debts. This is not at all what most experts had expected them to do and is proving very confusing—to most experts.

Not all experts, fortunately, are confused. Not all of them have gone over lock, stock and barrel to the mechanistic doctrine of economics which says that people behave according to rules. A few economists have rejected that obvious fallacy spawned by Marxist materialism and adopted by American materialists.

They know that human beings are capable of original thought and cannot be handled like the same number of pigs, cows, sheep and horses. They are aware of dozens of feelings and impulses which determine behavior patterns with economic consequences. And they have a hunch that millions of Americans who were supposed to rush out and buy because that's what economists said they would do merely reserved the right to know more about their own minds than most of the economists ever tried to find out.

Children Preferred

A RHODE ISLAND landlord swamped by applicants after advertising for a tenant with children is not as rare as anti-landlord critics have been encouraged to believe.

There are many landlords who would prefer to rent to tenants with children but are unable to do so because there is no provision under rent ceilings for meeting higher maintenance costs.

The squeeze put on renters with children has been a scandal since the early forties. Everybody talks about, but no one does anything about it, except an occasional landlord who goes out of his way to give renter-parents a break.

Among those who have done nothing about it are rent-fixers, who never have considered the possibility of allowing landlords to require a property maintenance bond of renters with children.

Just a Pinch of Yankee Doodle

SOME of the many Americans who have been traveling abroad to find out what this country's aid program is doing, have come home with an impression that the people in charge of the program have recaptured the spirit of Yankee Doodle.

That would be important if it's true, and it probably is. The spirit of Yankee Doodle has been an American trade secret in times past and is well worth saving. It is the thing which made Americans famous for tackling impossible jobs and getting them done while defeatists were discussing reasons why the jobs could not be done at all. It built vast airports on coral islands in the Pacific, filled the air with planes in World War II, conquered the wilderness in pioneer days and developed the world's highest standard of living.

Yankee Doodle dared to do what others did not dare to try. He was just a touch naive in his approach to knotty problems: he did not know enough to be scared. And the fact of the matter is that today there are a great many Americans who know enough to be scared—enough to make them feel defeatist about things they once would have tackled in their stride.

Just a pinch of Yankee Doodle in the melting pot makes the difference between success and failure.

Too Big To Hide

By Raymond Moley

Truman Tries To Shield Government's Faults

IT HAS long been evident that the job of running the great federal government is too much for President Truman. Recent events are beginning to indicate that the job may be getting too big for any President.

Truman's assertion that the press will have to censor security information is a confession that the federal Administration cannot itself protect secrets. The range of its interests is too wide. If its concerns were limited to diplomacy and military affairs alone, the task would be lighter. But since the tentacles of government run into every cranny of our national life and government agencies know more than they can keep to themselves, the situation gets completely out of hand.

MOLEY

Another aspect of the situation in Washington needs to be considered. The people who staff the vast publicity machines of many departments are dependent for their jobs on competing among themselves for the favor of segments of the press. They want to place stories favorable to their departments in the very newspapers and "slick magazines" that the President denounces on every occasion. Hence, the bosses of these agencies are in a continuous state of obligation to members of the press. They have to pay off, and they do so by means of leaks which find their way into print.

ONE BUREAU that need not be named here planted glowing stories of its activities during the past three months in the same "slick" magazines that the President apparently reads because he is always complaining about them. These stories were, incidentally, gross exaggerations of the work of the bureau and were accepted by newsmen and editors who were too lazy to get the other side or too ignorant of things outside Washington to doubt the handouts. The benefit to the bureau was very considerable. First Truman, their Big Boss, saw the stories. Next, the public was reached. Does anyone suspect that this favor to the bureau will not be repaid in secret or exclusive information."

The press is competitive, as it should be. Freedom depends on this competition. If the press should combine and channel its information through a press-created censorship it would lay itself open to the charge of monopoly. The President would probably direct his attorney general to proceed against such a monopoly.

MOREOVER, THERE ARE unscrupulous people who publish stuff that the conscientious newspaperman would not use. Some of these people have secret pipelines into departments. If the President cannot close these leaks, the self-censoring legitimate press will be at a tremendous disadvantage.

The President himself is no model of news dispensing. When he said that his government had learned of the latest Russian explosions during the preceding 10 days, he was giving the Soviet intelligence a valuable lead to how the information escaped.

The newspapermen covering the White House, moreover, have learned that they should never accept what the President says until they get a later clarification"—which means correction—from the White House press secretary. Are they, following the terms of that "clarification," to place the President among the irresponsible officials and wait for the "responsible" secretary to tell them what they can use? In short, will Truman statements "stand up," as the press phrase goes?

DOUBT HAS accumulated ever since early Roosevelt years that the President's press conferences are worth while. Certainly not to the Presidents, for Roosevelt revealed himself usually as a charming master of verbal confections but a foggy and unreliable purveyor of facts. And Truman has shown himself to be a petulant person, not well informed, but sensitive and suspicious. He used the press and then complains when the press fails to agree with him.

More important still, the President reveals in his press conferences that neither he nor anyone else can be informed about the multifarious activities of such an immense government. One small head cannot carry such knowledge, especially when this particular head is not so large as that of past holders of the Presidential office.

What is needed is not a "clarification" of the news but of the President's ideas of how news should be disseminated.

Horse of Another Color

By TRUMAN TWILL

ADVERTISEMENTS and that grinny pitch - woman on television exhorting women to change the color of their hair to match their moods and the seasons are one thing. But when women begin to do it, that's something else.

This boy is not old-fashioned enough to say there is anything wrong with that kind of improvement on Nature. But even a male teen-ager must be a little surprised when his girl friend turns up looking like a horse of another color.

Not that she may not look a whole lot better than she did the old way, especially if she was beginning to look like the old gray mare. But if this interchangeable hair color setup keeps growing, a man may no longer be able to identify his roommate by the shade of her hair. He no longer can say he married a blond, a redhead, or a brunet. He will have to explain he married a chameleon and keeps track of her by the fillings in her teeth, in the event her teeth are not subject to change without notice, too.

The upshot of the whole thing is going to be that women some day will select the color of their hair the way they now select the color of their gloves. There will be no more frustrated blond types that came equipped at the factory with nondescript brown tresses. Every woman will be able to make like a redhead for the price of a couple of dollars—and millions will do a bad job of it. This will be the real emancipation of the female sex—the greatest forward stride since tin cans and automobiles.

Women will dye their hair with no more misgivings than they now paint their fingernails and smear red grease on their lips. They will quit apologizing for being gray-haired and therefore looking old enough to be somebody's mother. they will aim to look young enough to be somebody's cousin from Duluth, instead. The genie these hair-dye people are letting out of their bottle — the light-brown-haired genie—is going to abolish a lot of inhibitions.

No woman will have to advertise the fact she is a grandmother, unless she is more interested in running for public office than for help. And any woman unable to reconcile herself to single blessedness with the color of hair she had until yesterday can reappear in a new version tomorrow.

Nothing, says Goethe, is so terrible as activity without insight. Look before you leap is a maxim for the world.—Edwin Percy Whipple

Into the Wastebasket

The Senate's Rule No. 22

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

THE House of Representatives is just about done with its year's work. Not the Senate. The reason: the senators not only like to talk, but can, almost without limit. The talking slows them down.

And the senators are so jealous of their right to keep talking that they have through the years made rules which make it difficult, and sometimes impossible, for anyone to shut them up.

James Marlow

That's why when one of them, or a group of them, wants to keep the majority from acting on something, he just goes into a filibuster which means he can talk till he drops unless the others really want to stop him.

For example: almost all decisions of the Senate are by majority vote. But in 1949 if the Senate wanted to stop a filibusterer it could do so only if two-thirds of those present voted to do so. This is called cloture.

But in 1949 the southern Democrats filibustered against a civil rights bill. They won out. They won something else, too: the Senate changed its rules making it more difficult to stop a filibuster than ever before.

THE NEW RULE which the Senate approved in 1949, known as rule No. 22, still stands. Whereas in 1949 cloture could be invoked by a vote of only two-thirds of those present, now there can't be cloture unless 64 of the 96 senators vote for it.

But, since it was the Senate itself which made this rule, can't the Senate itself at any time change the rule to make it easier to invoke cloture? That's where a special gimmick in No. 22 comes in.

That rule says: while 64 of the 96 senators can shut off debate on some bill before the Senate, or some motion to bring up the bill, there can be no cloture at all on any motion to change the rule itself.

So, if tomorrow a senator got up and proposed changing the rule, the same southern Democrats who won in 1949 could get up and filibuster against the proposal and the Senate has no machinery to stop them.

But now a group of senators—all Democrats with one exception, Senator Morse, Oregon Republican—have suggested that rule No. 22 be changed to make it easier to invoke cloture. They've made various suggestions.

THE ONE GETTING the most attention at the moment was offered by Senator Lehman, New York Democrat-liberal, and is sponsored by these other Democrats: Benton and McMahon (Conn), Murray (Mont), Magnuson, (Wash), Neely and Kilgore (W. Va), Douglas (Ill), Humphrey (Minn), Green and Pastore (R.I.).

This is what they propose by way of wiping out rule No. 22:

1. In case of a filibuster against some measure considered an emergency—instead of the 64 out of the 96 senators, as under rule No. 22—two-thirds of the senators on the floor at the time could invoke cloture after the filibuster had lasted two days.

2. On a non-emergency measure the filibuster could be stopped—but not until 16 days after it started—by a simple majority vote of those senators on the floor.

Why the 15-day delay? Senator Lehman said it would allow the filibusterers time in which to appeal to public sentiment and arouse support, if any, for their views before cloture was attempted.

Senator Morse's proposal would end a filibuster if a majority of those present voted for that. Once a majority had so voted, no senator could then talk for more than one hour on the measure under discussion.

But all this is still in the talking stage, off the Senate floor. But before they can ever get rule 22 changed, they must make a motion to change the rule.

And that's where a filibuster can start and, apparently, go on endlessly since rule No. 22 says there can be no cloture on any talk against changing the rule.

This presents a near dilemma for Lehman and Morse and their friends or anyone else who wants to change the rule. If they ever make the motion, fireworks will start.

But don't look for any attempt in this direction before the Senate comes back next January.

Hoover's Autobiography

By George E. Sokolsky

THE FIRST volume of Herbert Hoover's autobiography is to be published about the middle of this month. I am not jumping the gun in respect to the publication date: that apparently is a grave sin. However, the book recalled to me our first correspondence.

Throughout the years of my residence in China, I treasured the friendship of Tong Shao-yi, an elderly gentleman of cultured habits who had been in the highest offices under the dowager empress as well as during the early years of the republic. Tong Shao-yi had been like a father to me and I respected him as though I were, in truth, his son.

SOKOLSKY

It was the Tong family that was interested in the coal mines in North China where Herbert Hoover was employed as a young engineer, and his enemies, even now, try to give the impression that there was something wrong about it.

In fact, in January, 1920, two Americans came to China to discover whether there was any basis for the stories about Mr. Hoover stealing mines from the Chinese. They represented themselves as having been sent by the Republican party.

Old Tong Shao-yi thought that his friend, Herbert Hoover, was in some kind of peril and he asked me to write a letter telling of this sleuthing. I did so on January 17, 1920 and I have the letter before me now.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Peyton Hord, a native of Rockingham County, Va., where he was born Dec. 2, 1818, came to Marion County from Zanesville in about 1826, settling in Grand Prairie Township, as a young man he was a stock buyer, purchasing cattle and hogs and driving them through the "Black Swamp" to Detroit and sometimes over the mountains to Eastern markets. In 1867 he was elected to the lower house of the state legislature from Marion County.

The Once Over

Hollywood at Hyde Park

HOLLYWOOD has bought the rights to the life story of Franklin D. Roosevelt This is okay with us provided there is no emphatic demand from the Democrats that Boris Karloff play Hoover, Landon and Willkie Casting a Hollywood actor for the part of F.D.R. is engaging the best minds of Hollywood. Gregory Peck, Spencer Tracy, Jimmy Stewart and Larry Parks are in the running. But, knowing the ways of the movie people, we should not be surprised if Bing Crosby turned up as the late President, with Bob Hope as Harry Hopkins.

PHILLIPS

The Republicans will be kept, of course, from any part in the casting of players. The Democrats are going to be especially on the alert for any hints from the G.O.P. that the entire doings of the New Deal Administration from 1933 to the present day be interpreted by Martin and Lewis.

Hollywood's reaching into one of the most famous graves in America for a movie scenario may be partly explained by the recent tremendous box-office success of spectacle productions such as Quo Vadis, David and Bathsheba, Kon-Tiki and Alice in Wonderland. Kon-Tiki is the stirring tale of four or five men who made a terrific voyage on a raft. Franklin D. Roosevelt made the same trip with millions of Americans in the crew The only startling difference is that on the Kon-Tiki they had at least one man aboard suspected of being a Republican, and let him finish the trip. In Kon-Tiki the crew used a raft of balsa logs tied together with rope in defiance of storms and high seas. Roosevelt did it all without ropes. On the Kon-Tiki the boys lost the rudder once and had a tough time. F.D.R. had the same thing happen and was never in peril. He could always steer with a fireside chat.

Quo Vadis is a story of dramatic days in ancient Rome and features a famous chariot race. We assume this will be done in the Roosevelt story, with Taft, Eisenhower and Dewey playing the other Roman charioteers. Should the movie folks decide to draw on the box-office appeal of Alice in Wonderland there will be no kicks from the Republicans, as they hold this story almost a replica of the Democratic Administration for the past two decades, with the White Rabbit always in the act and with every explanation of the new economy being a direct steal from the famous:

'T was brillig, and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe;
All mimsy were the borogoves
And the mome raths outgrabe.

Elmer Twitchell says that no matter what form the Roosevelt picture takes, his interest will be in how the old-fashioned, thrifty, self-reliant American is played. "I am betting they will try to get Peter Lorre for the role," he says. "And for the part of any successful businessman the choice of the Democrats will, of course, be Bela Lugosi."

Whether Jim Farley will be allowed in the picture remains to be seen. We rather anticipate his appearance only via the invisible character routine as in "Harvey." One thing you can bet on, they won't let him be played by John Wayne.

This amount would be needed to reimburse the various political subdivisions of the county for the loss in tax revenue each would sustain from the exemption of personal property ordered by the legislature.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Restrained Enthusiasm

"The Celanese Corporation of America in association with the playwrights of America present Celanese Theater," ran the opening announcement on that ambitious hour-long television show which just opened on ABC-TV (10 p.m. EST alternate Wednesdays), the playwrights thus getting second billing to the bankroll. I suppose they're entitled to it for bringing such a fine series to TV. Just the same, it's a little like saying "Guiliano de Medici in association with Michaelangelo and Raphael present the Sistine Chapel." Possibly that's the way things were done in those days, too.

John Crosby

It's a little early to tell whether Celanese Theater will live up to its advance billing. The opening play was Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness"; it's the first O'Neill play ever to be televised but it's also—let's face it—one of the more innocuous works of the master. "Ah, Wilderness" was originally a middle-aged romp not only for the playwright but also for its star, the late George M. Cohan.

IN FACT, late in its run, it was it was a little too much of a romp for Mr. Cohan. He was all over the stage—snorting, pawing the ground, fiddling with his glasses, waving his arms; it wasn't acting, but it was a vastly entertaining exhibit of mimicry by a very great expert in the field and it extracted a lot of laughter out of material that was not especially funny and was not intended to be. O'Neill, if I dig him correctly, primarily intended "Ah Wilderness" as a picture of a vanished way of life, a personal exercise in nostalgia, rather than as straight comedy.

A good deal of the picture vanished, probably unavoidably, when the play was cut to an hour. The tale of adolescent love, and one rather mild adolescent excursion into sin, which was a large part of the play, was almost the whole of the televised version. This meant cutting down rather heavily on the portrayal of the adults, a genuine loss. The small town editor, played by Cohan on the stage and by Thomas Mitchell on television, was quite a guy—liberal, wise, tolerant (of everything except intolerance which he refused to tolerate), and shrewd in native American way which is to say a kindly rather than a selfish way.

MR. MITCHELL simply didn't have time to represent all these characteristics adequately and wound up being simply a rather nice old codger who was a little concerned over his son's hell-raising. The character of the brother-in-law, a souse with excellent reasons for being one, was hardly touched at all, more's the pity. My own favorite scene in the play—and a lot of other people's—was that of the whole family at their July 4 dinner, a festive, familial and at the same time dramatic occasion, which summed up admirably the grace and spirit of the year 1906 in small town America. For inscrutable reasons of his own, the producer has cut this scene entirely.

What was left after all the trim had been cut away was a quiet little family play, a great deal of O'Neill's extraordinary passionate and playable dialogue and a general impression that nothing of great consequence was going on. As I remarked earlier, the returns will have to be a little more complete before the enthusiasm for this laudable enterprise is entirely unrestrained.

Autumn Is the Time for Pennsylvania Slaw

THAT bright splash of color to be seen on the fall trees serves as a reminder that the time has come for all good homemakers to spruce up, too—on their family menus. As gay and colorful as autumn foliage is this new and flavorful version of cole slaw. It's a double-duty treat, too, because it can be served as a salad or as a relish, and either way, you'll find, it means double the usual pleasure.

PENNSYLVANIA KRAUT SLAW

¾ cup grated raw beets
1 T chopped onion

V.F.W. Backs School Levy

Geran-Thomas Post No. 3313, V.F.W., went on record as backing the four-mill school levy at a meeting Wednesday night

It was announced that the post is sponsoring a basketball team in the Marion County basketball league again this year. Veterans of the Korean conflict, it was reported, are eligible for membership in the V.F.W., and their fathers may join Dad's Post.

John W. Haggerty was reported in the White Cross Hospital, Columbus, and James H. Meek at Crile Veterans' Hospital, Parma.

Plans are being made for the 10th district V.F.W. conference to be held in Marion Dec. 8 and 9.

Grand Prairie Grange Marks Booster Night

Booster Night was observed when Grand Prairie Grange met Tuesday night, Oct. 9, at the Grand Prairie School. Special guests for the occasion were teachers of the school.

The guests were welcomed by William Hutchman, master, and the response was given by Russell Martin, principal of the school. Members responded to roll call by reading cartoon clippings.

The program included two choral numbers by a girls glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Evalyn Johnson, school music teacher, a poem, "The Teacher," by Mrs. Geneva Brewer, a recitation, "The First Jack O'Lantern," by Emelie Pride, a playlet, "Teaching Her To Drive," by Mr. and Mrs. Kensel Clutter, a piano solo, "Dizzy Fingers," by Mrs. Hazel Hinamon, and a humorous reading, "Men's Pajamas," by Mrs. Blanche Lill.

Mr. Hutchman gave a report of the last Pomona meeting at Whetstone, and plans were made for annual inspection to be held Oct. 23. Named on the refreshment committee for the next meeting were Miss Alma Pride and Mrs. Argyle Gilbert.

Catholic Women's Board Meets With Mrs. Huber

Mrs. Edward T. Huber of East Center street was hostess for a meeting of the board of St. Mary Parish Council of Catholic Women Wednesday afternoon. Associate hostess was Mrs. Frank Powers.

Mrs. George M. Schelb, delegate to the diocesan convention held last week at Columbus, gave a report of the meeting. Mrs. D. J. Sansotta also gave highlights of the one-day session. A letter was read from a priest in Germany, adopted by the council, telling of his needs. Plans were made for a parish card party at the next council meeting, Oct. 25.

FALL TRANSPLANTING

Fall is the best time for planting and transplanting trees and shrubs as a general rule. Your plant is ready for this operation when the leaves have fallen and the plant is dormant. Order your plants from a nearby reputable nursery, and they will not suffer from shipment. Once received the trees or shrubs should be planted as soon as possible.

First check your location in respect to the requirements of the plant. Will it have the proper amount of sunshine? Will it have good air circulation? Will it be exposed to severe winter winds? Do not crowd the roots. Fill in around the roots with topsoil and pack it well so that all roots will come in contact with the soil. Before the soil is completely filled in, it is well to fill the depression with water. Keep the soil moist continually until the plant becomes established.

In any transplanting operation some of the root system is lost. When they are injured they should be cut back. To compensate for this loss, the top must be pruned. Heavy pruning at planting time is usually advisable.

For the first year after planting most plants will do better with a mulch of well-rotted cow manure.

The following are plants which should not be transplanted in the fall: azalea, spicebush, buddleia, sweetshrub, dogwood, hawthorne.

Schiaparelli Says Few Women Look Their Best

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

FEW WOMEN, French, American or Hottentot, know how to look their best.

This is the observation of Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, after a lifetime of selling glamor to most of the world's best-dressed women.

Looking youthful and full of bounce, Mme. Schiaparelli sat at a Louis XIV desk in her black and gilt edge Fifth Avenue salon.

Small, dark and dynamic, she is well qualified to speak on the subject of fashion. Her dressmaking salon in Paris still is flourishing, after 25 years which have seen many of the great names fade. Her enterprises on both sides of the Atlantic multiply almost by the hour. Right now, in addition to her main business of dress designing, she has the following irons in the U. S. fire:

A line of Schiaparelli dolls, a stocking manufacturing business, a successful perfume business, a wholesale coat-and-suit manufacturing business, a line of scarfs designed by Schiaparelli, Schiaparelli-designed blouses, and lingerie.

U. S. tycoons look on her far-flung activities and murmur wistfully:

"But women aren't supposed to understand business."

SO MME. SCHIAPARELLI probably knows what she is talking about when she comments on the vagaries of her less-gifted sisters. She adds thoughtfully:

"Few women ever know what type they are."

She describes a typical customer in her Paris salon:

"A woman comes in to buy a dress, looks at the model and says, 'I love it.' But she'd like it in another color and a different fabric, with perhaps another belt. The result is that when it is completed to her specifications, she hates the dress—and often she's right.

"Then there's the customer who buys a dress at one place, a hat at another, accessories somewhere else and then wonders why her clothes always look thrown together."

Unless you are very sure of your own type and tastes, it's best to put yourself in the hands of the designer, whose business it is to see that you look your best, Schiaparelli advises.

THE ESSENCE OF the Schiaparelli philosophy of dress is to avoid distortion of the human figure and to keep the entire picture simple, so that the woman is not secondary to her clothes.

Here on a flying visit to New York, Schiaparelli's most violent fashion comment is on the billowing skirts that are top favorites of the season in the U. S. A. Says she

"They make even a pretty woman look dowdy. They hide the natural lines of the body. They make thin women look fat, and fat women look enormous. I can't bear to look at another full skirt.

Delaware Co. School Districts Are Combined

Harlem Joins Big Walnut In New Setup

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Oct 12 — The Delaware County Board of Education Wednesday night adopted a resolution to combine the Big Walnut and Harlem school areas into the newly-created Big Walnut Local School District

The action follows an announcement from the state Department of Education that the Harlem School faced possible loss of its charter because of low enrollment, inadeqquate financing and educational programs now in effect

If no remonstrance is filed within the 30-day period required by law, the new district will begin operating Nov 10 A board will be appointed by the county board after that date.

The new district would be the largest in central Ohio with an area of 107 square miles With an estimated enrollment of 1,119 pupils it would have the largest enrollment of any school district in central Ohio, G E McFarland, county school superintendent, reported The district tax duplicate would total $7,803,003, he added

Although the merger would become effective Nov. 10, Mr McFarland said the physical merger of the schools may not be completed until next fall

Western Union Trial Recessed

BRIDGETON, N J, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Western Union gambling trial has recessed until Monday after hearing testimony that the telegraph firm kept a special account for a man under indictment as a bigtime bookmaker

Two clerks in the Passaic office of Western Union took the stand to tell of horse race betting operations carried on by J W Donaldson, alias Leo Link of Teaneck

Link is under separate indictment and faces trial for bookmaking State authorities seized $127,000 in cash in a cellar safe during a raid on his Teaneck home several months ago

Western Union, the state charges relayed hundreds of horse race bet messages to Donaldson at Clifton, N J, and other addresses, and is on trial for aiding and abetting bookmaking

Western Union contends it was obliged under its franchise to accept any messages offered if they were not obscene or lnoelous Horse race bets were handled like any other messages, the company said.

National Negro Labor Union In Making

CINCINNATI, Oct 12—(AP)—The acting president of a proposed national labor union for Negroes declared his intention last night to go ahead with a founding convention here Oct 27 despite strong opposition

William R Hood of Detroit denied statements by the A F L and C I O that the movement is Communist-inspired and designed to exploit a minority group for the benefit of the Communists

In a telephone conversation from Detroit with the Cincinnati Enquirer, Hood predicted 4,000 Negro union members would attend the two-day convention here It will be held at the former headquarters of the Hamilton County Communist party

Hood also is president of the Detroit Negro Labor Council, a Left-Wing group, and secretary of Ford Local 100 of the C I O-United Auto Workers

Need Proof, Judge Rules

CINCINNATI Oct 12—(AP)—Telephones may not be removed just on the suspicion they are being used for illegal purposes, Common Pleas Judge Charles S Bell ruled yesterday

He granted a mandatory injunction requiring the Cincinnati Suburban Telephone Co to restore two phones to the Erin tavern Police Chief Stanley Schrotel had asked removal of the phones after he said a plainclothesman told him they were being used for horse race bookmaking

Judge Bell ruled telephone subscribers have the right of a hearing before the State Public Utilities Commission before phones can be removed

Referring to the plainclothesman's statement, the judge said this is 'hearsay twice removed'

No arrests were made at the Erin tavern The judge indicated the P U C O hearing would not be required if police proved the phones were used for illegal purposes

A regulation of the P U C O. says phones may be removed on the complaint of any municipal, county or state authority if it is shown the phones are being used for an illegal purpose

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON

MR. REPUBLICAN wants to be Mr. President. Within a week, with his usual candor, he will say so and thus become the first political leader to declare himself a candidate. Even as this is being written, the senior senator from Ohio, Robert A. Taft, is completing his plans and his statement calling for the G.O.P. nomination for the presidency of the U. S.

Victor Riesel

By doing so, he will defy the most powerful coalition of labor leaders to band together against a political leader. But behind the big oak doors of his private office, Mr. Taft has told his colleagues he believes he, not the labor leaders, will carry the labor vote.

The senator has indicated that much of his decision to campaign openly for the presidency now is based on the labor reports from his two field strategists. They have just told him that in their travels—over 50,000 miles in 40 states — they found "great strength" in rank-and-file labor circles for his candidacy.

THIS REPORT came from Taft's two most intimate lieutenants, Ben Tate of Cincinnati and David Ingalls of Cleveland, both of whom, of course, have found their travels well publicized since they began sounding out Taft sentiment last December.

They backed their statements up with a pile of "several hundred" telegrams from labor people, all of which, it has been said, will be disclosed as the campaign rolls on.

They revealed that the Labor League for Taft has begun reaching out of Ohio for national coverage.

They reported that, even in labor circles where the senator was a bitterly controversial and unpopular personality, there was the feeling that Sen. Taft was a sporting winner, who, without rancor, had sat down with several national labor chiefs to discuss aiding them in Congress—but never once threw at them the fact that they had campaigned against him in Ohio last year as their Public Enemy Number One.

TAFT'S TRAVELING team told the senator, among other things, that they believe the Taft-Hartley law is a dead issue; that many workers feel the unions have gained membership, money and strength through the years the law has been on the books; that labor has used it more than the employers; that it has been the big stick in shaking the left-wing loose from the C.I.O.; and, ironically, that it was the extreme left in the Hollywood strike some years back which first exploited the law.

There you have the over-all strategy for the tactical assault on the labor leaders who will oppose Mr. Taft. These are the things he will say as he matches his factory gate campaigns against President Truman's whistle stop technique. The senator will go right into the plants and stump the heart of the country's tense and concentrated industrial sectors. He will hit the TV lanes to get into the working class living rooms as he appeals for labor votes over the heads of the A.F.L. and C.I.O. high command.

WHILE THERE WILL BE Taft supporters in the A.F.L., the C.I.O. leaders will be relentless. Unlike their tactics in the Ohio senatorial campaign when Mr. Taft singled them out as the spearhead of labor opposition to him—and they avoided retorting to his charges lest they make it a personal feud between Taft and the C.I.O.'s Political Action Committee leader, Jack Kroll—C.I.O. strategy this year will be to hit him with everything they have.

There is resentment inside C.I.O. over the A.F.L.'s subtle, but certainly obvious, sentiment that C.I.O. is a political liability. This sentiment was there during the Ohio labor campaign to dump Taft from the Senate last year—so the C.I.O. seldom spoke for itself, but usually through the joint labor committee. No more, they say. From now on they take Taft on personally—and have in the past few weeks.

As revealed in acrid speeches during all recent C.I.O. regional parleys, the C.I.O. line will be to label him an enemy of the working man by tying him up with the "big money interests."

The senator believes his personal appearances at the plant gates will offset these charges So, apparently, there'll be a hot time in many a factory town next year—if the senator is nominated.

Christopher Columbus

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK

NEVER start a journey on Friday, grandmother always said: nothing good will come of it.

The weight of public opinion and superstition is certainly on grandma's side.

So it may comfort a passel of folks to know that one of the most historic and dramatic journeys in history began and successfully ended on Friday.

Apparently Christopher Columbus was not privy to the report that Friday was an unlucky day on which to set out from hearth and home. Because the admiral sailed on his quest of a westward passage to Cathay on Friday, Aug. 3, 1492.

Inez Robb

As any hammer - head can tell you he dropped anchor in a new world on Oct. 12. This happened to fall on a Friday and by any name a fine, fair day to Columbus's some-time mutinous crew which had seen enough ocean to do it for a lifetime.

What immediately followed was the first Columbus Day parade ever organized in the new—or old—world as the admiral and the 87 other men who accompanied him across the ocean blue swarmed ashore onto the island christened San Salvador by Columbus.

THE ONLY AUTHENTIC portrait of Columbus that has survived the 459 years since he set foot on San Salvador shows him to have been a tall, well-built man, with a scholarly, clean-shaven face and big, dark, sad and intelligent eyes.

He must have looked right handsome that other Friday 459 years ago when he strode ashore handsome in a whole new outfit of rich threads he had taken along for just that purpose.

It may be more than simple justice that the new world Columbus saluted on that far-off Friday is credited with the incubation of the independent and emancipated woman.

It was certainly an independent and a fairly emancipated woman who finally provided him with his change to explore that westward passage to Cathay and all the mythical riches. Queen Isabella of Castile (who said she would pawn her jewels to back Columbus's venture if the Spanish government was too chinty to divvy up the money) would have been a remarkable woman in any age. She was particularly so in the Fifteenth Century.

IF ISABELLA DIDN'T exactly invent the soap opera formula, she certainly gave it a hearty shove. At the age of 11, she was bethrothed to Ferdinand of Aragon.

Anyway, by the time Isabella was really old enough to be married, her brother, King Henry IV, had changed his mind about Ferdinand's desirability as a future brother-in-law.

Henry tried to marry his sister, in turn, to a half dozen other European princelings he deemed more advantageous. But Isabella had her neck bowed and held out for Ferdinand.

Eventually Henry got so tough and Isabella so stubborn that she—not Ferdinand—planned the elopement that made her the latter's bride. (From that day until her death, she always wore the pants in the family.)

JUST AS IN THE SOAP OPERAS, Ferdinand sneaked into Castile in disguise, Isabella flew to him and they were married. This made brother Henry so furious he was going to cut her off without a throne, since she was his legal heir, or a penny. But Isabella was so popular with the home folks that Henry IV had a second think and made peace with her.

Finally Henry went to his reward and Isabella became Queen of Castile in 1474. Then Ferdinand succeeded to the throne of Aragon in 1479 and the merger produced Spain.

Well, eventually, as you all know, Isabella took a chance on Columbus, he justified her faith and that is why we are having a big parade up Fifth Avenue today.

Sociology Afloat

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

WHAT can a double couple of unmarried boys and, girls prove afloat that they can't prove on foot?

Well, a male member of such a quartet says after floating 85 days on a small raft together that the experience has been "more conducive to murder than romance."

He is a 24-year-old phychology student, and his remark was made at Vicksburg during the course of an 1,800-mile river voyage from New Kensington, Pa., to New Orleans.

Hal Boyle

The trip has been billed as a "sociological experiment" to see how people get along at close quarters, as if 50,000 years of human history hadn't dismally testified.

The raft is called "The Lethargia," and it measures 12-by-20 feet. The only creature aboard this frail vessel besides the two dubious guys and two self-questioning gals is a dog named "Delilah."

(Editor's note: Isn't there a movie being publicized around now called "Samson and Delilah"?)

(Boyle's note: There is.)

(Editor's note: Well?)

(Boyle's note: Well, Well.)

* * *

WHAT INTERESTS THE AVERAGE landlubber in a voyage such as this down Ole Man River is what the dog thinks. The whole adventure is a depressing parody of Noah's bout with the flood.

But Noah took aboard two animals of each kind.

Why didn't the experimenters on "The Lethargia" give the dog Delilah the same break? It might be too obvious to haul aboard a Great Dane called Samson. But how about taking on a long-haired male lion named Samson? That would out-Noah-Noah—noah kidding.

Then you'd have a real sociological experiment. It isn't really important whether the four people are married or not. Anybody who knows anything at all about human nature knows you can't even put four unwed Republicans in a crowded place for 85 minutes without getting two votes for Eisenhower and two for Taft. Crush four strange people together in a chockfull subway and you've got a raft of trouble.

Sex has nothing to do with it Grapes like to be bunched—but most other things don't. Everybody knows sardines love each other in the sea better than in a can.

BUT IF YOU PUT FOUR young human experimentalists — two boys, two girls—on a small raft with a dazed lady dog and a confused male lion, well, you got some real interesting sociological possibilities.

What happens?

My theory is that Samson, the lion, and Delilah, the dog, would do just like the four people aboard the Lethargia say they do—sleep in their clothes on opposite sides of the raft, one sex portside, the other starboard.

For a few days, anyway. Then Samson would push the four people into the river, and put his head on his paws and look at Delilah and wonder what in the world she was.

As soon as the raft hit near New Orleans he would run to the nearest zoo, and stand on his hind legs and beg to get in.

And Delilah? She'd hire a ghost writer—maybe Mark Twain—and put out her autobiography under the title: "A-Lyin' On My Raft."

One sure thing about the Mississippi River: anything light floats on it, including some objects lighter than Huckleberry Finn.

Call Stassen To Answer State Dept.

Given Chance To Deny Charge He Was "Factually" Incorrect

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—A Senate subcommittee gave Harold E. Stassen a forum today to reply to a declaration by the State Department that Stassen was "factually incorrect" in his description of a 1949 discussion of China policy.

He and a Northwestern University professor, Kenneth W. Colegrove, were called back before the Senate internal security subcommittee to testify further about an October, 1949, roundtable conference on China policy.

The State Department, responding to earlier testimony by Stassen and Colegrove that the dominant group at the three-day conference advocated steps favorable to Red China, made public last night a 90,000-word transcript of all that was said at the closed sessions.

The department said a majority of the 25 non-government persons who took part in the roundtable were inclined toward eventual U. S. recognition of Communist China. In an accompanying statement, the department insisted it never pursued that policy.

"Matter of Timing"

It disclosed that former Secretary of Defense Marshall, now retired, expressed belief that recognition of the Red regime was largely "a matter of timing."

The roundtable of 25 civilians, including university professors and businessmen, was called by Secretary of State Acheson Oct. 6-8, 1949, to discuss policy at a time when the Chinese Communists were sweeping through China and driving Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists to Formosa.

In Philadelphia, where he is president of the University of Pennsylvania, Stassen commented that "the transcript completely proves my earlier testimony."

Today's hearing of the subcommittee, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) said, was to give Stassen and Colegrove a chance to show "where the transcript of the conference discussions bears out their previous testimony."

The subcommittee is making a broad search for any subversive influences that may have influenced U S. policies in the Far East

Repeated Charges

Stassen, Republican former governor of Minnesota, previously has told the subcommittee on two occasions that the "prevailing group" at the roundtable urged a 10-point program that would "hasten the victory of the Communists in China.

Stassen testified this program included early U. S recognition of the Red regime in China, the turning over of Formosa to the Communists and the withdrawal of American aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

In its reply last night, the State Department declared: "There was no prevailing group"; no 10-point recommendation was made; the discussion of recognition never took the shape of a policy recommendation; the department "has never advocated the recognition of Communist China."

"Beyond Challenge"

The department added:

"Therefore it is beyond challenge that any statements made by Mr. Stassen to the effect that a recognition policy favored by a majority of persons at the roundtable conference was either favored or followed by the Department of State are not correct."

Both Stassen and Colegrove had testified the roundtable conference was dominated by a group sympathetic to Red China They said the leader of this group was Owen Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins University professor and Far Eastern affairs specialist who has served as an occasional consultant to the State Department.

After the State Department had given him a transcript of his own remarks at the conference Lattimore said: "I find that every single policy statement that Mr Stassen attributed to me is a complete and unmitigated misstatement on his part."

New President Is Inaugurated At Denison University

GRANVILLE, O., Oct. 12—(AP)—Specialization "gone wild" to the neglect of a general education can be disastrous, the new president of Denison University said in his inaugural speech today.

Dr. Arthur Blair Knapp, who became Denison's 14th president in campus ceremonies, called for integration between specialized and general education, saying it must come soon "or we shall in fact become irrelevant and our fate immaterial."

Gov. Frank J. Lausche welcomed Dr. Knapp, former vice president of Temple University, to Ohio. Chancellor William P. Tolley of Syracuse University spoke on "The President and His College" preceding the charge to President Knapp by William P. Huffman of Dayton, chairman of Denison's board of trustees.

Riesel Writes About Taft

For months now, the political eyes of the country have been focused on the plans of Sen. Taft. For months, the travels of his two field lieutenants have been watched by the press and have provoked considerable conjecture.

Will Sen. Taft seek the G.O.P. nomination for the Presidency of the U. S.? Victor Riesel answers this in his "Inside Labor" column today.

This important story typical of the newsbeats scored by the bustling and constantly traveling columnist comes from a source close to the Ohio senator.

Billy Rose Locked Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 —(AP)—Showman Billy Rose was locked out of his fashionable town house yesterday following an estrangement from his wife, 37-year-old Eleanor Holm.

The whole affair may lead to divorce court proceedings, according to Miss Holm's attorney.

Newsmen were present when Rose drove up to his mansion in a chauffeured car. The 50-year-old stage producer put a key in the front door lock, but it didn't work.

"Wrong key," he said, and left.

Fifty minutes later Rose returned with a new set of keys, but with the same results.

Rose retired to his apartment in the Ziegfeld theater, which he owns.

The locked apartment incident was the latest in a series of domestic difficulties that began last July when Rose and blonde Joyce Mathews, ex-wife of comic Milton Berle, reportedly made a plane trip to Montreal together.

A few days later, Miss Mathews slashed her wrists in the bathroom of Rose's sumptuous theater-district apartment.

Stories of a breakup leaked out early this week. Subsqeuently, reports were published that Mrs. Rose had led a raid on her husband's apartment last Sunday and found him there with a woman companion. Detectives and friends were said to have accompanied Mrs. Rose on the raid.

Favor Ike As G.O.P. Choice

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Two Republican senators said today they are confident Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower will be a candidate for president on the G.O.P. ticket next year. And last night Senator Duff (R-Pa) said in a radio interview he expects to get a "definite and decisive" statement from Eisenhower at a meeting about Jan. 1.

Senators Ives of New York and Morse of Oregon, said in separate interviews with newsmen they are confident the general will win the Republican nomination and then go on to defeat President Truman or any other Democrat.

Duff has been a leader, with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, in booming the World War Two hero for the G.O.P. nomination.

Ives, longtime political ally of Dewey said the very fact Eisenhower has thus far kept silent supports his views. He said:

"If General Eisenhower was going to refuse to be a candidate he would have said so long ago. Therefore he would seem to be definitely available."

called to Washington in the past month for conferences on the tightening metal situation. Manufacturers already are limited to 58 percent of their pre-Korea usage of steel, 54 percent of copper, and 46 of aluminum.

In the case of automobiles, which are being produced at the rate of 1,100,000 a quarter or roughly 60 percent of pre-Korean output, defense production officials plan to limit the industry to metal for between 930,000 and 950,000 cars in the first quarter of 1952.

However, officials told Senator Moody (D-Mich) yesterday that by using substitutes and drawing on inventories of scarce materials, the auto companies should be able to stretch their supplies to produce 1,006,000 passenger cars and station wagons.

Experts Disagree

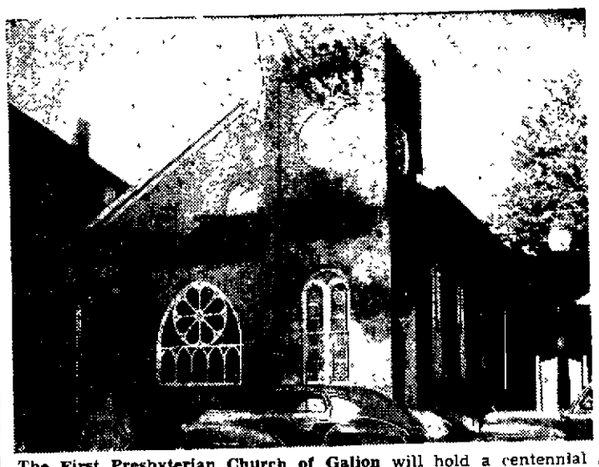
Experts have disagreed on how long the acute shortage situation may last. Some predict relief next fall, others not until early 1953.

But Fleischmann forecasts "reasonably adequate" supplies of civilian goods, pointing out that the warehouses of manufacturers, wholesalers, and retail dealers are bulging with finished goods.

The four-committee session with Wilson and Fleischmann was arranged yesterday when Wilson invited Vice President Barkley ard a small group of senators and representatives to lunch. There he presented briefly some high points of the planned metal allocations for the January through April quarter. The congressional delegation felt the report was sufficiently important to, warrant calling together the full membership of the banking and small business committees from both houses.

Church Founded With Eight Members

Galion First Presbyterian Church Will Be 100 Years Old This Month



The First Presbyterian Church of Galion will hold a centennial celebration Oct. 21. The church building is shown above on South Market street in Galion.

(Special to The Star)

GALION, Oct. 12 — First Presbyterian Church of Galion was organized 100 years ago this month. To commemorate the anniversary, the congregation has set Sunday, Oct. 21, as Centennial Sunday, and will have special services on that day.

First steps to organize the church was in 1851, at the time the railroad was built through Galion. The Marion Presbytery gave authority to organize the church on the petition of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee, Mr. and Mrs. John McClelland, Mrs Ann Rankin and Mrs. Barton.

Meetings were held at first at the home of John McClelland every second Sunday in the summer and every month in the winter, with occasional services in one of the sister churches of Galion. Rev. J. P. Lloyd was the first minister, and the first elders were Joseph Lee, John Young and Ezra Day.

Galion, at that time, had a population of only 400 persons.

Pulpit Vacant 3 Years

A vacancy in the pulpit for three and one-half years was nearly fatal to this young congregation, but in 1858 Rev. Lloyd who had been absent during that time returned to Galion.

In 1860, a site was secured on South Market street, adjacent to what was then the City Hall, jail and the fire station. Progress on the building was held up by the Civil War. The church was finished in 1863 with a large debt to be paid by the small congregation. They lived to see the debt wiped out and the church placed on a solid foundation.

This main building still stands and is the sanctuary of the present plant. In 1894, the building was remodeled and the present foyer was added. In 1930, the small one-story parish house at the rear of the church was destroyed by fire. The present two-story addition was built shortly afterward at a cost of $5,300. The church is now in the process of extensive redecoration.

Membership totaled 13 in 1853 it is shown in the minutes of the First General Assembly. Present membership is 278, the highest in the history of the church.

Sabbath School Organized

The Sabbath school was organized in 1862 at the church. Paul Phillips is the present superintendent and the assistant superintendents are Robert Ricksecker and Mrs. Russell Gledhill.

The Missionary Society of the church was organized in 1875. Two other groups, Grace Guild and the Ladies' Guild united into a Women's Association in 1950. A church choir was organized in 1906 by the late Mrs. H. W. Todd, and the Men's Brotherhood was formed in 1908.

Pastors Listed

Pastors who have served the church, as near as the records show, were: Rev. A. E. Thompson until 1868; Rev. Kingery in 1869; Rev Hugh R. Price, Rev. Milton McMillen, Rev. Edward P. Elcock. Here, the records are not clear. Since 1900, the ministers were: W. A. Perrins, E A. Barnes, L. A. Lashely, C. K. Alexander (he was drowned on an outing in 1922); Robert E. Porter who now lives in Bexley, Ohio; William A. Martin, 1938-1945, who now is pastor of Potter Memorial Church at Mingo Junction, Ohio; Norman R Reidesel, 1945-1949, now pastor of a rural church, Route 2, Toronto, Ohio.

REV. HENRY KUNCE

Among the early influential members were Dr. C C. Coyle. P. M. Daily, Hugh McFarquar, L. W. Banister, A B. Struthers, Hugh Diamond, A J Monroe, W. L. Quay, I. C. Guinther, Don Mumford, D. E. Shaffer, Dr. VanMeter, Dr. Marsh.

The program on Oct. 21, will be held at 2 p.m. At 10:45 a.m. Rev. Kunce will preach on the subject, "Vision, Foundation, Builder." A basket lunch will be held at 12 30 at the American Legion Home.

Earl Logan will be moderator for the centennial program at 2 p.m. Anthems will be sung by former choir members led by Mrs. Charles Geiger, former director. A reading of the history of the church will be given by W. V. Goshorn, and experiences of bygone days will be given by former and older members, along with histories of church organizations, letters from friends.

Committee chairmen of various events are: S. D. VanMeter, W. V. Goshorn, Mrs. A. W. Brautfield, Mrs. Fred Fortney and Rev. Kunce.

board in December, 1950 that membership in exclusive groups by Willis High School students be forbidden. James Collard, a member of the school board, made the motion that the resignation of Mr. Smith be refused. He said the board was familiar with the way the superintendent felt on the subject and that he would resign his board post if Mr. Smith's resignation was accepted.

Mr. Smith explained that a boys' secret society was formed at Willis in the 1920's. "But the girls' groups organized within the last five years," he said. In his request for action, Mr. Smith said, "Recent agitation concerning these groups led to the argument that presence of these groups is a parents' matter. However, more recently parents are saying 'as long as your school has these groups, our children may join as far as we are concerned.' I do not want our school to have such groups. They set up attitudes of cooperation and non-cooperation. They put their groups above school groups."

Reasons for Opposition

"My reason for opposing the exclusive groups are based on educational, social and psychological reasons. I oppose them on strictly educational reasons.'

He listed several reasons for opposing the secret groups. The groups take interest from the total program of the school and after give the members the idea that at 15 years of age they have reached the "highest goal." He said the groups make other students feel inferior when they are not invited to become members and they also weaken school activities.

The one boys' society at the school is known as the P.G.P. Club. Two girls' groups have been organized under the names of the Arrows and the O.K. Girls.

Fred Carlisle, president of the boys' group, said after yesterday's conference with Principal Hopkins he would "rather resign from his fraternity than cause any trouble in the school." Some of the students said they thought the ban should have been placed in effect earlier, 25 years ago when the school was built. Mr. Smith has been superintendent for 19 years.

Finnegan

Finnegan of violating a law by accepting pay for services involving controversies in which the United States was a party.

Three days ago Finnegan told the House ways and means committee he tried to resign as collector on three occasions and in 1950 was told by President Truman to stay on because there was no replacement.

Mr. Truman said at a press conference yesterday that he was unable to recall whether he had ever asked Finnegan not to resign, but added, they said I did. He did not identify "They."

The President also said he was unaware of Finnegan's outside activities until recently. Finnegan has said he practiced law while on the federal payroll.

Mr. Truman remarked that he opposed outside activities by internal revenue collectors.

If convicted, Finnegan could be sentenced to three years on each bribery count and fined three times the amount of money received, or both. On the other charges, the maximum penalty is two years in prison or $10,000 fine, or both, on each count.

Finnegan has not been located. He left Washington Wednesday after testifying before the House ways and means committee.

Judge Moore set his bond at $5,000. He ordered the grand jury recessed "subject to recall." The life of the jury had been extended until March, 1952."

Foresee Italian Peace Treaty Revision Soon

Big Three Expected To Go Ahead Minus Russia's Agreement

MOSCOW, Oct. 12 —(AP)—Western diplomats predicted here today the United States, Britain and France will revise the Italian peace treaty on their own terms and without Russia's agreement.

They concluded this after Russia, in a note to the western powers yesterday, the Soviets would agree to lifting treaty restrictions on Italy's armed forces and admitting her to the United Nations only if—

1. Italy quit the Atlantic Alliance and barred foreign military forces from her soil.

2. The western big three agreed to similar peace treaty revisions and U. N. membership for Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, and Finland.

The western observers forecast that if the West proceeds with its own plans, ignoring the Russian conditions, the Soviet Union will be resentful and may seek some form of retaliation.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed the note to charges d'affaires for the big three powers without discussion or comment.

The Russian communication was in reply to a three-power western declaration of Sept. 26 propopsing revision of the Italian treaty and Italy's acceptance into the U. N.

The reply set forth the first time Russia's official position on the western plan to let Italy increase her arms and armed forces beyond the lightly-gunned 300,000-man limit imposed by the 1947 treaty.

The Russian note said Russia could join in cutting arms limiting clauses out of the Italian treaty "only in case Italy leaves the aggressive North Atlantic bloc and does not permit military bases and armed forces of foreign nations on its territory."

1st Blaze During Fire Prevention Week Reported

A perfect record of no fires during National Fire Prevention Week was broken this morning when firemen from the West Center street station were called at 9 a.m. to the Roy Gilbert home on property owned by the city near the city dump on Route 95.

Flames from a discarded cigaret which had been dropped into a davenport spread to a chair and also ignited some children's clothing. Fire Chief Owen Sifritt estimated damage between $50 and $75. The building did not catch fire

The only other calls answered by the Fire Department this week, National Fire Prevention Week, resulted from a gas furnace which exploded, but did not burn, early Wednesday morning, and a false alarm last night.

The Fire Department was scheduled to display and demonstrate equipment today at 3 p.m. on the Central Junior High School grounds, in connection with the observance of Fire Prevention Week throughout the country.

Dr. Kellogg To Talk Monday

District Church Leader Religion School Speaker

Dr. Harold F. Kellogg, superintendent of the Lima District, Methodist Church, and a former electrical engineer, will speak at the Marion County School of Religion forum hour Monday night. This will be the third session of the school which is being held in First E.U.B. Church during Monday nights this month. Dr. Kellogg will speak on "The Prospect for Freedom." Classes will follow the forum hour which is set for 7:30.

DR. HAROLD F. KELLOGG

After following several years the profession for which he was trained, Dr. Kellogg, "feeling the call of Christ to full time Christian service," entered Drew Theological Seminary in New Jersey. He has served pastorates at Pittsburgh, Pa., New York, and Dayton and Athens, O., before being appointed Lima District head.

In giving information concerning his Monday night's message on freedom he commented to Rev. Evan R. Owens, dean of the School of Religion here, "Freedom is one of the most discussed words of our times—freedom of religion, of the press, of speech, crusades for freedom, and academic freedom, and is the object of many other expressions of concern." He will discuss, he said, the questions "What do we mean by 'freedom,' how is it related to the Christian faith and ethics, how nurture it, and what is the Christian's responsibility in relation to it?"

Speedy Senate Action Seen On Foreign Aid

Hearings Under Way Before Last Night's Passage by House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The $8,299,255,096 foreign aid bill passed by the House yesterday appears set for speedy handling in the Senate.

With congressional leaders plumping for final adjournment not later than a week from tomorrow, the Senate appropriations committee started hearings on the measure even before the House voted.

Administration lieutenants predicted a clear track in the Senate.

Republican opposition to the big bill melted last night at the end of a nine-hour House session during which every proposal to chop the funds was defeated.

The money is intended to help non-Communist nations build up their military and economic muscles to resist Soviet aggression.

Includes Carryover

It includes $816,727,306 appropriated in previous years but not yet spent on the vast aid program. Of this carryover, approximately $566,000,000 is in European military aid funds.

All the money would be available for expenditure during the year ending next June 30, but not all of it is expected to be spent during that period.

While only $45,000,000 below the President's budget requests—the entire cut being in Korean reconstruction funds — the bill falls about $1,000,000,000 short of what Mr. Truman had sought earlier this year.

The President wanted authority for an $8,500,000,000 program, plus the carryover money, but Congress chopped the authorization bill by approximately $1,000,000,000. Appropriations are limited by authorizations.

G.O.P. Voted Down

Republicans offered six amendments to cut the funds further and were defeated on all of them.

The final vote that sent the bill to the Senate was 221 to 99, with 69 Republicans and one independent joining 151 Democrats. Passage was opposed by 81 Republicans and 18 Democrats.

Republicans aimed their economy drive at funds earmarked for Europe. They tried unsuccessfully to cut $556,253,233 and then $300,000,000 and finally $20,000,000 from European military allotments.

"Little David," perhaps the largets gun ever built, was a 36-inch siege mortar designed by the U. S. Army to help break through Germany's Siegfried Line in World War II.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

We crowded around my father as he spoke his "exit lines," and bade him a cordial farewell. But he added a corollary as Dicky pulled down the night chain to let him out.

"Remember," he said, "that every last detail of your party must be planned before you leave. I hate to have you stay up tonight, but you will be going so early in the morning that I think it would be wisest if you settled everything tonight before you sleep.

'My daughter has everything at her finger's ends," he went on, with a smile at me, "and she will brief you on everything. And now, good-bye, and good hunting!"

He went into the corridor, Dicky accompanying him, and Harry Underwood holding the door on the night chain until Dicky's return. Dicky had called for Adams, and we knew that the "Chief" would be safely guided through the basement labyrinth to the other street where his armored car had awaited him.

We saw Dicky salute him as the car stopped at our floor, and Adams opened the door. Then Dicky came back. Harry put up the chain, and the two men came back into the living room.

Lillian rose as we entered.

"If you're going to hold a conference," she said, "Harry and I can go down and take squatter's rights in the Dickybird's nest. You can rout us out when you're through."

Roderick and Junior rose and came over to Dicky and me.

"We might as well get some shut-eye," Junior said. "We've got to start early tomorrow morning, and you won't need us. We've got the key of our suite on us. You other two lads have your key, so you can trail along when the conference is finished."

"Have you finished?" his father asked him, and Junior started at his tone.

"Why, yes, sir," he said, patently bewildered.

"Then," his father told him, "you and Roderick get back in your chairs. And as for you two mavericks" — he challenged the Underwoods — "will you come back here and stop acting as annointed asses might?—and that's alliteration, laddies and ladies."

"Not one of your better efforts," Lillian sniffed, "and may I ask why you're calling us outen our names?"

"Because you're sneaking out on us," Dicky said, "and I don't allow nobody to do that to me."

"Them's fightin' words, Laddie Buck," Lillian retorted. "We're not sneaking out! We're marching out, with our heads held high. Match that one, Alliterative Andy!"

Lillian's husband and I are so used to her wordy battles with Dicky that we were not particularly interested, although we weren't emulating old Queen Vic. Our resibles were responding definitely, if a bit faintly. But Dicky's four nephews were choking with laughter, and the two girls were giggling as if they were bobby soxers. Harry Underwood shot a quick look at them, and then threw his shovel of coal on the fire.

'But we don't belong in any conference on this New Haven thing," he said.

"You wild ass of the Celebes!" Dicky apostrophized his friend. "Will you come over there peaceably, or will I have to drag you? You may not be going to the party, along with Lil, also Junior and Roderick. But we need to take counsel with all four of you, so get into your chairs, while I call the meeting to order."

Prevention Week Reminders

Answers To Some Vital Fire Hazard Questions

This is Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13, and the quiz below is published in connection with the observance in Marion and all other American communities.

Q—What is the first rule of fire prevention?

A—Good housekeeping. Fires breed in accumulations of old newspapers and magazines, discarded furniture and mattresses or other combustible material. Clear out cluttered attics, basements and closets, and turn waste paper and rags in for salvage.

Q—How many fires occur in homes each year?

A—Nearly 400,000 which take a toll of about 7,500 lives. The National Fire Protection Association sponsors Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13, to encourage the removal of common fire hazards which cause nine out of ten home fires.

Q—What structural hazards account for 50 percent of all residential fires?

A—Half of the fires occurring in homes are caused by defective chimneys and heating apparatus, flammable roofs, and electrical defects. These hazards can be minimized by regular inspection, cleaning and repair of the chimney and heating plant, replacement of worn electrical wiring, repair of defective appliances, and use of fire-resistant roofing.

Q—Where is a safe place to store gasoline or kerosene?

A—In underground tanks. If underground storage cannot be provided, the best place is a small shed apart from the house or other main buildings.

Q—How can grease fires in a kitchen stove be avoided?

A—Clean the oven regularly to avoid accumulation of grease, and keep grease containers away from the stove. If a grease fire should occur, put a large, flat cover over the burning pan or smother the fire by sprinkling a quantity of ordinary baking soda on it. Don't use water—it will cause the burning grease to splatter.

Q—What' is still the nation's No. 1 fire hazard?

A—Carelessness with cigarets and matches used to light them, the source of more than 91,000 home fires annually.

Q—Is it safe to use cleaning fluids in the home?

A—Only if it is a non-explosive fluid, such as carbon tetrachloride. Never bring gasoline, benzine, a naphtha or other volatile flammable liquids into the home for any purpose.

Bible Lines

"I Must Be About My Father's Business"

WHEN Jesus was twelve years old, His parents went to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast. And as they returned, Jesus tarried behind; and Joseph and His mother knew not of it. But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought Him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

And when they found Him not, they turned back to Jerusalem, seeking Him. And after three days they found Him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, hearing them, and asking questions. And all that heard Him were astonished at His understanding and answers. And when they saw Him, they were amazed: and His mother said to Him, "Son, why hast Thou thus dealt with us? Behold, Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing."

And He said to them, "How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business?" And He went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but His mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

Seek Effect of Controls, Taxes

Corporate Profit Reports Will Be Studied Carefully

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—The profit system—on which the American economy is still based—will be up for stock-taking again soon And many corporations' earnings statements probably aren't going to look as good as they did three months ago.

The increasing inroads of taxes and controls on business will become apparent in another week, as corporations begin reporting on their profits in the July, August and September quarter.

The reports will reach flood stage by the end of the month. And the nation can then see whether taxes and controls have—as many in business charge—cut back corporate profits to the point where incentive to invest and produce is getting sickly.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers isn't waiting for the reports to come out. It's making its own guess now—forearmed with the knowledge that taxes are going up on every cent a corporation made since April 1, and that controls of materials, prices and mark-ups really started to bite this summer.

THE COUNCIL says corporate profits in the third quarter dropped both before and after taxes, although people in business for themselves made more money, and the total of wages and salaries went up this summer at an annual rate of $2.1 billion to hit $179.5 billion. Also the total value of all goods and services produced in the country hit a new high—at an annual rate of $328 billion.

Corporate profits before taxes dropped at a $2 billion rate to $46.5 billion, the President's council estimates. This was a loss in annual rate of $5 3 billion since the first three months of this year.

After taxes, corporate profits dropped even more—by $6.5 billion—from the peak reached in the last three months of 1950. This summer, the council figures, corporate profits after taxes were at an annual rate of $21 3 billion, a $700 million drop from the April, May and June quarter.

BUT ALTHOUGH corporations were losing in profits, as they were squeezed between price ceilings and rising costs and taxes, national income as a whole was rising this summer by 2½ percent to a new peak of $284.6 billion, the council calculates. And the Department of Commerce reports today that total personal income is now running at a record $254.4 billion a year.

The increase in total national income was not only due to rising wages and salaries (particularly government payrolls), and to increased farm income, but also to the record dividend payments by corporations.

This gain in cash dividends, plus plans for record spending on expansion of plants and equipment, would seem to indicate that the profit system was far from sickly yet.

The Commerce Department says that corporations paid out $4 4 billion in dividends to shareholders in the first eight months of this year, or 12 percent more than was paid out in the same period last year.

BUSINESS IS EXPECTED to spend $25 billion this year on new plant and equipment But the President's council says that such spending reached its peak in the three months just past, and there will be a slight drop in the October, November and December quarter.

Some of the money business is using for expansion is borrowed, but a lot of it since the war has come out of corporate profits This money was put back into the business rather than being passed around as dividends.

And business has also had to keep more working capital on hand to take care of rising prices of materials and to carry large and high-priced inventories.

Within the next few weeks business itself will report on all these phases of the profit system and you can see how close the president's council comes to hitting the mark with its guesses.

Highlight of Oil Progress Week

Oil Co. Vice President To Speak in Marion

One of the features in Marion's observance of Oil Progress Week next week will come on Thursday, Oct. 18 when Robert L. Milligan, executive vice president of the Pure Oil Co., Chicago, will speak at a Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting.

Henry Krigbaum, veteran local oil man and member of the Kiwanis Club program committee, said the program was planned in conjunction with the Marion County committee of the Oil Industry Information committee composed of Carl Kay, chairman, Rex Redman and C. H. Bachelder. The luncheon meeting will be held at noon at the Harding Hotel.

Annual Event

"Oil Progress Week is an annual event, when oil men throughout the nation report on progress and developments in the 92-year-old petroleum industry," Mr. Krigbaum said. "The Marion committee is very much pleased to have Mr. Milligan, a fellow Ohioan, appear on this special program."

Mr. Milligan is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in the first World War. After college, he returned to Springfield, O., to work for the Fairbanks Co., where he was successively superintendent, vice president and general manger.

In February, 1929, he joined the Pure Oil Co.'s treasury department in Chicago, and four years later he was elected assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. In 1947 he was appointed treasurer; in 1949 he became vice president, and he was elected to his present post in January 1951.

Mr. Milligan has also been active in executive capacities in civic, educational, and community programs, including the Chicago Community Fund drives, Evanston school board, and American Red Cross. He is a member of the American Petroleum Institute, and in addition to membership on several industry committees, he heads the committe on highways as chairman.

Mayor Harold F. Robinson has issued a proclamation designating the week of October 14-20 as Oil Progress Week in Marion. All supplying companies, their jobbers and dealers are cooperating in the observance.

New Work Laws For Women And Children Discussed

Bernard Bernard, assistant chief of the division of women and minors of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, was speaker Wednesday at a regular meeting of the Personnel Club at the Marion Chamber of Commerce offices.

He addressed the group on new provisions regulating the employment of women and minors under rules set up by Senate Bill 232 passed at the last session of the Ohio Legislature.

The bill, which went into effect Sept. 17, was passed as a means of regulating employment of women and minors during times of national emergency. It will be effective until Sept. 1, 1953.

Mr. Bernard pointed out the new provisions lift some restrictions and permit longer working hours during the national emergency. Women now may be permitted to work 48 hours a week while formerly they were limited to 45 hours. Office women now are allowed one 10-hour day as compared to a former maximum of nine. They may now be employed before 6 a.m. and after 10 p.m.

Minor boys may not be employed before 6 a.m. or after 10 p.m. while minor girls may not work before 7 a.m. or after 9 p.m.

Mr. Bernard was introduced by Fred Scherff, manager of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

It's shocking but true: a lot of girls who think they have a "bad" complexion actually have a complexion that's not clean. A casual quick splash at the face and throat just isn't enough to remove grime and make-up. Pores that become clogged and are allowed to stay that way help create a "bad" skin. It takes deep pore cleansing with plenty of soapsuds and warm water to produce a healthy glow.

Drugs Aids in Lung Disease

The result of serious and painstaking medical study can usually be summarized in the one word, hope.

This is certainly true of bronchiectasis, a disease in which the small tubes leading to the air sacs of the lungs become enlarged, distorted, and filled with infected material.

This disorder is the most frequent cause of lung hemorrhage, being more often responsible for such bleeding than even tuberculosis. Its outstanding symptom is coughing, accompanied by the expectoration of large amounts of thick, greenish-yellow sputum.

At first, seeing only the full-blown form of this disease in which permanent damage to the lung tissue had already been done, doctors were inclined to believe it incurable or, at best, only to be helped by the cutting away of the infected parts of the lung.

Recent intensive study, however, has revealed that this, like other disease, has its early stages, during which much can be done to prevent its becoming permanent.

Today, we are aware that most cases of bronchiectasis have their beginnings in childhood, although it may go unrecognized until adult life, since symptoms may not be marked for many years. Usually, it comes on gradually as the aftermath of some such disease as whooping cough, measles, or pneumonia, and thus many cases may be prevented by protecting children against repeated lung infection.

As I said before, brochiesctasis in its early stages is not necessarily associated with permanent damage to the lungs. Lung surgery, which is the present form of treatment, should therefore be postponed in all cases which seem to be early.

Vigorous treatment with the antibiotics, such as penicillin, aureomycin, chloramphenicol, or terramycin, may achieve the elimination of the underlying infection and may make surgery unnecessary. In cases which require surgery, this vigorous treatment may lessen the amount of surgery.

All cases of lung infections should be treated rapidly, adequately, and intensively with the antibiotic drugs. The prevention of many cases of brochiectasis may be accomplished in this way.

Questions And Answers

A.C.R.: What is amebic dysentery and how may it be treated?

Answer: There are two forms of amebic dysentery. One form is acute and causes severe collicky pains, with the passage of many loose, bloody stools. There is also some fever and prostration. In the milder form, there may be alternating constipation and diarrhea, while in some instances there are very few, if any, symptoms. To make a diagnosis, the parasite that causes the disorder must be found in the bowel movements.

It is obvious that there are other disorders which have symptoms similar to those found in amebic dysentery and, for this reason, careful examination by the doctor is needed in order that a definite diagnosis may be made.

There are a variety of drugs which have been suggested in the treatment of this condition, including preparations of arsenic, such as acetarsone and carbarsone. Various other drugs such as chiniofon, vioform, and anayodin, have been recommended in certain cases. Emetine hydrochloride, a drug which has been employed to a great extent in the past, should probably be used only in those cases where there are abscesses of the liver and the disease is severe, and then only with caution. Recently, aureomycin has proved valuable in many cases.

The dose of any preparation to be employed will depend upon the patient's age, weight, and general condition. The treatment can be satisfactorily carried out only under the direction of the doctor. Because of the nature of the preparations which are employed in this disease, attempts at self-medication would be highly dangerous and might result in severe poisoning.

Sokolsky

tors that nobody stole those mines because the Chinese still have them. Instead he recounted how the young engineer organized to feed the Chinese of Tientsin during the Boxer Rebellion. I quote from my letter:

". . . Mr. Tong then expressed great gratitude for what had been done twenty years ago . . . He told the story of the vase which you took as a memento of those terrible days in Tientsin. Mr. Tong wondered whether you still have the vase which you took from his house not as loot but as a remembrance."

The years pass and 1928 approaches. This time the Democrats send a delegation to get the dirt on Herbert Hoover. And the more these men dig, the more the arrows point toward Tong Shao-yi. Finally, they are advised to see me and I take them to this aged mandarin who sits among the most beautiful Chinese porcelain every afternoon, drinking coffee which he prepares in his own fashion. And it all is so exotic and incongruous to listen to him discourse almost intimately on American politics, robed in beautiful brocades. So these Democrats want to know about the stolen mines and Tong tells them of the genius of the young engineer and how Hoover foretold the Chinese revolution almost a decade before it happened in a report to the Viceroy Li Hung Chang, who would not believe him.

THIS TIME, I was again designated to write Mr. Hoover, reporting the incident, but that letter I do not now find. Mr. Tong, in due course, gave a press interview on the perfections of Herbert Hoover in the conduct of these mines. Subsequently, the entire story was told in detail by B. W. Fleisher in the "Japan Advertiser" and by George Bronson Rea in the "Far Eastern Review."

Tong Shao-yi must have been in his 80's when he was assassinated for saying that the Chinese were unwise to be at war with the Japanese, as such a war would ultimately hand China over to Soviet Russia—a frightfulness that actually came to pass, as we now all know.

Two years or so before his death, in 1930, when I was returning to the United States for the first time in 13 years, he asked me to call on Mr. Hoover in the White House to say that if these stories troubled the President, he Tong, would come to America to speak on Mr. Hoover's behalf, to tell of all his wonderful performances in China. And this I did.

It was an amazingly unbelievable visit to the White House. There sat a president beset by a thousand worries, for the depression had already become a nightmare. He recalled men in China who had made their mark and passed on, and some were still alive. And I know that Mrs. Hoover, then a young bride, had learned the Chinese language and loved the blue and white porcelains which are most beautiful when made in Chingtehchen in the province of Kiangsi. I almost felt that he envied my living so long among a nation so mature that they have a sixth sense for quality in man and thing.

Pig Litter Weighs Ton In 6 Months

A litter of pigs raised by Don Lawrence, Claridon High School senior, reached a total weight of one ton within six months of their birth, qualifying him for a Future Farmers of America "ton litter" award.

The litter consisted of 13 pigs which averaged 240 pounds in weight at two days, less than six months of age—a total weight of 3,120 pounds.

They were out of a cross-bred Duroc-Minnesota No. 1 sow bred to a Poland boar.

Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lawrence of east of Marion.

Heartbreak

French fought 16 hours over the crags of the final crest before they won the height.

Later Friday they were reported battling Reds protected by deep bunkers on the northern slope below the towering peak. This was the "mop up."

There was the ever present possibility of a counterattack — by North Koreans or by Chinese Reds who have been pouring into the area to reinforce them.

Tank columns blasted up Mundung and Satae valley on either side of Heartbreak to cut off possible Red aid and shatter their gun positions.

Tanks had blasted the northern peak of Heartbreak from either side Thursday. Then fighter-bombers and artillery smothered it with another barrage.

At 4 p.m. the final assault began. It was carried by the thinned ranks of the First Battalion of the U. S. 23rd Infantry Regiment and the French volunteer battalion.

Night-Long Fight

All night long the storm troops worked their way up two narrow ridgelines toward the towering crest. They used every weapon in the infantry arsenal—mortars, recoilless rifles, machineguns, flame throwers, rifles, carbines and hand grenades.

By dawn they had cleaned the Reds out of 22 earth and log bunkers.

Then came the climaxing dash with fixed bayonets.

The close quarter fight on the crest lasted until 8 a.m. Friday.

A colonel, almost beside himself with joy, screamed into a field telephone:

"We've got it. We've got it."

The colonel, James Y. Adams of Monterey, Calif., said it was the toughest fight in the more than 100 year history of the 23rd Regiment. He commands it.

The 23rd started the conquest of Heartbreak a month ago as "just another hill assault." In six days the troops were atop peaks at both ends of the four mile ridge. Victory seemed certain.

It was only an illusion.

Lost in Counterattack

The night of Sept. 23 the North Koreans fired one of their most concentrated artillery barrages of the war. Then they counterattacked and drove the Americans from the hills.

The Heartbreak battle developed into a major operation. It employed the entire Second Division, the attached French, tanks and artillery. The Division resorted repeatedly to night attacks, a Communist tactic rarely borrowed by the Allies.

When the Americans carried the southern peak for the second time, only three men reached the peak.

As the battle for the ridge developed, it became clear it was a test of strength with the revitalized North Korean army.

Fresh Chinese were rushed in this week to relieve North Koreans holding neighboring peaks and ridges. The Chinese came in time to meet the full thrust of the Allied attack, which spread across neighboring ridges and roared up the valleys to prevent reinforcement of Heartbreak.

From Heartbreak Ridge Americans now overlook the main supply route winding through towering eastern peaks in the sector.

Royal Couple Starts Tour Across Canada

EN ROUTE TO KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 12—(AP)—After a night of square dancing in peasant blouse and dirndl skirt, Princess Elizabeth went back to her fancy clothes today for the first of a long series of whistle-stop appearances across Canada.

Leaving her diamond tiara and satins and laces in her trunk, the princess last night whirled and reeled at a Government House buffet supper attended by 70 friends of the governor general, Viscount Alexander, and his wife.

The Duke of Edinburgh wore borrowed blue jeans and a loud shirt for the square dancing, which Alexander scheduled after supper. Guests said the royal couple swung through the figures with great gusto.

But it was back to work today, with four stops at as many Ontario points and a flight to Toronto.

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

HOW TO WIN FRIENDS. Rowdy, bellicose, empire-baiting Leo Durocher has a million friends today. His amazing Giants lost out in the World Series. But we all love him.

Not bad for a man who was the most disliked person in sports a few years back.

If you think the Giants' comeback was phenomenal study the record of "Lippy Leo" and his fall and ascent to valor. You might say Leo is a self-made man who lifted himself up by his own conduct straps.

NICE GUYS AND WINNING. Not too long ago "Leo the Lion-hearted" snarled, "Nice guys don't win pennants," and the newsmen took it from there.

That challenge by Durocher was immediately interpreted as meaning sportsmanship and fair play were not for him; win at all costs seemed to be what the rowdy manager meant.

Sometime later he was given the "royal order of the thumb" from baseball by the then Commissioner Hap Chandler.

NO CURTAIN FOR LEO. Many of us thought it was the end of Durocher and we didn't much care. The "win at all costs" attitude didn't belong in any sport was the general consensus.

But there was at least one man who believed in Durocher. He was Horace Stoneman whose New York Giants were going nowhere in no particular hurry under the guidance of Mel Ott. Durocher was brought in to guide the team.

In no time Lippy was back to his old tricks, baiting umpires, hurling insulting chants at opposing players, and even challenging the fans.

He won't last, we thought.

NEW MAN. Then the Lip became less pronounced. He backed his players when they lost, blamed himself when things went wrong, and was even observed passing casual remarks with umpires.

And even more important his Giants began to win.

They won 50 out of their last 72 games in the latter part of the 1950 season and came on to make their historical finish this season.

After his "kind of team" upset the Dodgers in the playoffs Chuck Dressen and Jackie Robinson of the Brooks came into the locker-room to extend their congratulations.

FATHER AND SON. It's debatable what made Durocher "see the light," but an incident that occurred in the lockerroom following the decisive World Series game may tell part of the story. It came in a press release from New York and we think it worth repeating.

Leo's small adopted son, Chris, 6, came in. He wore a baseball uniform, and it was wet.

"We were throwing water," he told Leo. "They said we should stop. I stopped, but they didn't. They kept throwing water on me."

"Well, well, that's all right," said Durocher. "I guess you won't be needing that uniform much more this season."

He bent down and gently helped the boy off with his shoes, talking softly to him as he did so. When his uniform was off, little Chris looked up with a big freckled grin of thanks on his slender face.

Suddenly Durocher clasped his son in his arms and gave him a squeeze.

"This makes up for everything," he said, "It makes up for it all. Some on!"

And dad and son went into the shower room together.

Both Need Victory For Big Ten Title

NEW YORK,, Oct. 12—(AP)—Football gets the undivided attention of the sports world tomorrow for the first time this year and offers such choice morsels as Southern Methodist at Notre Dame, Oklahoma at Texas, Ohio State at Wisconsin, Louisiana State at Georgia Tech and California at Washington State.

Michigan State and Tennessee are at home to Marquette and Chattanooga, respectively. Texas A. & M. plays Trinity of Texas under the lights at San Antonio.

Notre Dame's teen-agers—the youngest Irish squad Coach Frank Leahy has had in his nine years at South Bend—could have their hands full with Southern Methodist, which boasts of a great passer in Fred Benners.

Annual Tussle

Oklahoma invades the lone star state for its annual tussle with Texas University.

Illinois tests rapidly improving Syracuse and Ohio State barges into Wisconsin with the loser virtually assured that it will not be nominated as the Big Ten's Rose Bowl team.

Other games on Saturday's card:

East—Yale at Columbia, Princeton at Penn, Dartmouth at Army, Harvard at Cornell.

South—Florida at Auburn, Mississippi at Vanderbilt, Mississippi State at Kentucky, North Carolina State at Duke, South Carolina at North Carolina, Wake Forest at William and Mary.

Southwest—Arkansas at Baylor, Texas Christian at Texas Tech.

Midwest—Indiana at Michigan, Missouri at Colorado, Northwestern at Minnesota, Utah at Kansas, Kansas State at Iowa State

Far West—Oregon State at Southern California, U.C.L.A.-Stanford, Washington at Oregon, Wyoming at Colorado A. & M.

Intersectional—Holy Cross at Tulane, Navy at Rice, Penn State at Nebraska, Pittsburgh at Iowa.

'Y' Lays Plans For Coming Cage Season

Preliminary plans for the 1951-52 basketball season are being formulated by the the Y.M.C.A. The Independent, Industrial and Church Leagues will be sponsored again by the local association.

The Independent Loop, composed of teams drawing their manpower from any source within the county, is scheduled to open during the last week of November. The Industrial League, made up of players representing their places of employment, is to open at approximately the same time while the Church League will be organized in the early part of November and is scheduled to open play early in December.

Schedule Change

One change has been made in the cage setup, Y officials report. The Independent and Industrial Leagues will both play on Wednesday night. The upper and lower floors at the Y will be assigned the two loops from week to week. The Church action is set for Saturday night.

Priority for acceptance in the leagues will again be given teams seeing action last year. These teams will be given until Oct. 31 to file their intentions for the approaching season. Positions vacated will be filled by new teams.

Lopez Says Tribe Needs Outfielders

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians are ready to do some trading for outfielders, Manager Al Lopez says.

Lopez, back in Tampa after his first year of managing in the big leagues, said he was well satisfied with his pitching staff, his infield, Catcher Jim Hegan and Centerfielder Larry Doby.

"We are on the lookout for more strength in left and right field and, even more important, on the bench," Lopez said.

"We needed three or four men who could step in and hit for us in the clutch."

Lopez said his second-place club could have won the pennant with "a dozen timely hits in the drive down the stretch.

"When our hitting slumped the magnificent pitching of Bob Feller, Mike Garcia, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn couldn't quite make up the slack."

Haven't Learned To Live With TV, Says Tug Wilson

DETROIT, Oct. 12—(AP)—Big Ten Commissioner Kenneth (Tug) Wilson admits that "we haven't yet learned how to live" with television.

But he asks TV viewers to be patient until collegiate athletic officials can work out a satisfactory football telecast program.

"We realize that television is one of the greatest mediums ever discovered but we haven't yet learned how to live with it," Wilson told the Detroit television council yesterday. "We are spending a lot of money trying to find out."

The Western Conference chief pointed out that 19 games involving 29 colleges are being shown on 52 stations under the experimental "controlled television" program.

By December, he said, the Big Ten will have more facts to guide it and "will know what to do about television."

HARDING OPPONENTS. This pair of Lima South linemen, both senior lettermen, will see action when the Tigers meet Harding here tonight. Walter Fields (left) is a 195-pound tackle, and Bill Ketcham is a 5-10, 178-pound guard. Both have been on the injured list but are expected to be ready to go tonight.

Prexies Set For Visiting Lima "11"

By JOHN SHORT

Harding's gridders are ready for Lima South tonight at the Stadium after a light practice session yesterday.

With the exception of Halfback Chris Brady, Coach Pete Howison's crew should be near their peak physically. Tom Turner is set to move into the backfield for Brady. The hard running back has been laid up with an illness this week and is to see limited action at the most. Howison said he may be used on extra point attempts, depending on orders from a physician.

Jimmy Russell, speedy ballcarrier, is being slowed by an injured ankle and is to be limited to offensive action. Doug Bibler, another member of Harding's already scant backfield, also is held up by a sore knee.

Lineups

The probable offensive lineup will include Ed Morse and Tony D'Eramo at ends; Tats Taylor and Jim Arnold at tackles; Jim Larsen and Henry Deal at guards, Jack Bull at center; and Tom McClain, Russell, Turner and Chuck Taylor in the backfield.

Defensively the Prexies will lineup with D'Eramo and Bob Hamor at ends, Ken Stanley and Jim Arnold at tackles and Dick Hendel and Jack Boxwell at guards. Linebackers will be Tats Taylor, George Kasotis and McClain while in the safety posts will be Bill Winters and Jim Chapman

Game time is 8 p. m.

N. Bloomington Wins Crown

New Bloomington's baseballers took the Marion County League title last night with a 16-3 win over Pleasant at Lincoln Park. Both teams were undefeated in league play until last night.

The win gives the New Bloomington crew eight wins without a loss and places it in the district tournament next spring.

James belted four hits for the winners and Schwaderer hit a home run.

Trophy Race Set Again At Speedway

Headlining this Sunday's stock car races at the Marion Speedway is a 50-lap Trophy Championship Race. This thrilling event postponed from last week's Trophy Day because of rain, is to be the opening event at 2:30 Sunday. Because of the sizeable cash award and the giant Truman Championship Trophy to be given, competition is expected to be hot and heavy.

There will be nine events in all, beginning with the 50-lap Championship Race, and closing with a 25-lap feature race. The Suicide Race also will be a trophy race, and promises to be a real thriller. A sum total of 150 laps will be raced throughout the afternoon.

Between - race entertainment will be provided, it is expected, by the Bucyrus High School band.

Another highlight of the day will be the presentation of the Hi-Point Trophy—given to the number one man in the Marion Stock Racing Association. As they stand now, here are the top five men: Bill Krohmer, 139 points. Louie Louck, Marion, 120 points. Bill Morgan, Nevada, 106 points. Paul Hooper, Marion, 73 points, and Dud Grice, Marion, 73 points.

Marion Speedway promoters announced this week, that, because last week's card was cut short because of rain, holders of last week's $1.50 tickets will be admitted for 75 cents, plus the ticket. Regular price for Sunday's races will be $1.50.

Marion Speedway grounds—located 5 miles north of Marion, off route 23—will open at 11:30. Time trials start at 1 p.m. The Championship Races opens the day's program at 2 30 sharp.

17th Straight for Harding

Ashworth Sets Record As Prexy Runners Win Again

John Ashworth set a new Harding cross country record yesterday afternoon at the Marion Country Club as the Prexy harriers roared over Fremont Ross for their 17th straight win.

The meet was run under ideal weather conditions and Coach Ken Somerlot's crew responded with their best times of the season with a 15-49 verdict.

Ashworth completed the run in 10:39.2 to lower the former school mark of 10:51 set last year by Ted Price. In setting the new record, Ashworth was within striking distance of the course record posted last year by Lima's Ron Truex. Truex toured the course in 10:33.5 and then went on to finish first in the state meet last season.

Under Mark

Ted Price and Frank Green also finished under the 11-minute mark for Harding. They turned in times of 10:49.5 and 10:53.5 respectively. Dick Coulson, Dee Price and Dick Bollinger followed the first three across the finish lines to give Harding the first six spots. Joe Thomas came in seventh for the locals but had to battle for the spot with teammates Glenn Craft, Ed Porter and Bob Dutton.

The Harding runners will take to the road for two meets next week. Tuesday they will travel to Columbus to take on Upper Arlington over the scene of the state cross country meet at the Ohio State University golf course. Next Thursday they will meet Columbus West on Beacon Light Golf course at Columbus where the district meet is held.

Wolfe Wins Again In Grapple Bout

Joe Wolfe defeated Jules LaRance in the main event last night at the armory in an American junior heavyweight title bout.

LaRance took the first fall in 20 minutes as Wolfe received a shoulder injury when he hit the turnbuckle. Wolfe came back to even the count in the second fall by pinning LaRance in seven minutes. He took the third and deciding fall when LaRance was disqualified.

Johnny Demchuk managed to down Whitey Walberg in the semi-final. He captured the first fall in 11 minutes with an arm strangle. Walberg took the second with a short arm scissors after eight minutes but was pinned by Demchuk after seven minutes of the third fall. Irish McGee beat Bobby Watts in the one-fall opener.

"HE DIDN'T HURT ME MUCH." Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champ, points to bruised left cheek where he took hard blow from Rex Layne, at Pittsburgh. Charles defeated Layne in the 11th round. "But he didn't hurt me much," declared the winner. Charles floored Layne twice before the referee stopped the fight.

B.G. Faces Losing Streak

BOWLING GREEN, O., Oct. 12—After successive defeats by Miami and Mount Union, Bob Whittaker"s Bowling Green team will be a definite underdog against undefeated Ohio University at Athens tomorrow.

The Bobcat defensive team has gained national recognition by limiting three opponents to a minus 37 rushing yards. Only through the air was Morris Harvey, Akron and Western Michigan able to move against Carroll Widdoes" veteran club.

But the Bobcats' big task will be to stop Fred Durig, one of the state's top fullbacks. Fourth in nation-wide N.C.A.A. statistics, the Mansfield junior has netted an amazing 439 yards in 62 carries, including a pair of touchdowns.

Whittaker hopes to improve the B.G. aerial game, giving Freshman Jerry Barner an opportunity to alternate with veteran Rex Simonds at quarterback. Simonds has completed only 10 of 32 heaves but four have been for scores. Six-foot five-inch Jim Ladid has grabbed three of the scoring passes.

The B.G. coach gave some of his line reserves much needed experience in the Mount Union game and again will count on Lloyd Parkson and Darrell Clay at tackles, Harold Bruck and Bill Lyons as linebackers and Henry McFarland at guard for important reserve work.

Claimed Bad Breaks in '50

Redskins Want Revenge Against Browns Sunday

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Washington Redskins—always a tough team for Cleveland to beat no matter how easy they are for others—furnish the opposition Sunday when the champion Browns make their first home appearance of the season.

The National Pro Football League champs dumped Washington twice last season—but each time had trouble. And each time the Skins claimed decisions by officials had a big bearing on the outcome.

The Skins, after losing seven straight games last season, went all out the first time they met the Browns and were leading 14-10 with five minutes to go. As they pushed for another score, officials ruled Quarterback Harry Gilmer intentionally grounded the ball. The penalty stopped the drive and gave the Browns the ball in time to make an 80-yard drive for the winning touchdown, 20-14.

Finally Won

The second time the Browns and Skins met Cleveland had to come from behind three times before winning, 45-21. The victory put Cleveland into a playoff with the New York Giants for the American Conference championship. The Browns won the playoff and then the championship game with the Los Angeles Rams.

Washington complained the touchdown that put the Browns ahead of the Skins to stay came on a bad call. Warren Lahr intercepted a pass while on the ground, got up and ran over the goal. Washington claimed the ball was grounded and made no effort to catch him.

So far this year, Washington has lost two straight—to the Detroit LiLons, 35-17, and to the New York Giants, 35-14.

Cleveland has a split. The Browns lost to the San Francisco 49ers, 24-10, and then came back to thump Los Angeles, 38-23.

Besides Gilmer, the Skins have Sammy Baugh at quarterback. Baugh—now in his 15th season in the league—missed the first game against the Browns but was active in the second.

Cuccinello Joins Indians as Coach

CLEVELAND Oct. 12—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians announced today they had added Tony Cuccinello, 43, to their coaching staff.

A coach for the last three seasons with the Cincinnati Reds, he will handle the Tribe's third base coaching box. That will enable Jake Flowers to move to the first base box and Mel Harder to travel to the bullpen to watch over his pitchers.

Cuccinello broke into big league baseball with the Reds in 1930 and the next year had a .315 batting average. After that he played second base, short stop and third base for Brooklyn, Boston and New York in the National League and Chicago in the American.

His last year—1945—he came within a few percentage points of taking the junior circuit's batting championship with a .308 average for Chicago.

HOW IS YOUR CORN CROP?
Good or Bad You Can't Afford To Leave Ears in the Field
It Pays To Use a
David Bradley Corn Picker
Consider These Features:
Shorter Turning Radius: Rigid semi mounting on side turns with tractor like one machine
Practical for All Fields Knocks down less corn; less waste
Picker in Full Sight: When attached picker is part of tractor itself Driver controls both at same time
No Lost Corn on Turns: Clutch can be tripped where corn would overshoot wagon box
Good on Rough Ground Balanced snouts controlled by handy lever to avoid high spots and to pick up down corn
Four Slip Clutches: Reduce damage to picker
Simpler Construction. Easier to grease and adjust—less time lost, less to go wrong Parts always available at Sears
Quick, on and Off. Attaching and detaching is a simple, one-man operation
One or Two-Plow Tractor: Fits all popular tractors
New Husking Bed. Delivers the cleanest corn under the most extreme conditions

BEFORE YOU BUY Stop at Sears Farm Store and see for yourself all of these features plus many others you must see to appreciate
FARM OWNERS SAY It's the safest and most efficient picker you can buy
THE PRICE IS RIGHT Let us arrange for a home demonstration in your own field

BECAUSE OF HER POOR EYESIGHT, OUR LITTLE ROSE WAS A SHY, BACKWARD CHILD—I HAD TO TEACH HER AT HOME INSTEAD OF SENDING HER TO SCHOOL—

THE VERY WORD "SCHOOL" SEEMED TO FRIGHTEN ROSE—BUT ANNIE LOVES SCHOOL, AND ROSE BELIEVES IN ANNIE—
EVERYBODY LOVES THE CHILD—

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Indications now are that the Trumans will move into the White House early next year . . . at the moment there is no information on the terms of the lease.

Some think it should be week-to-week and others favor the customary four-year lease with options to renew.

The story on the renovated White House is that it has been finished in simple Democratic taste . . that's exactly what the Republicans feared.

But all I know is that some of the boys are willing to move in, be it palace or pump house.

* * *

Through the state legislatures the people apparently have said that they don't want another 12-year occupant but there is no confirmation that the present lessee was listening at the time.

Shucks, he has been so busy explaining why the papers shouldn't print news that his departments give out this year, probably he hasn't had time to think about next year.
